POLICEMEN HEAR CALL — Orland W. Wilson, new Chicago police superintendent, speaks to half of the city's police force at the Chicago Amphitheater at a mass meeting called to let them "get a look at me and to discuss problems of the department." Speaking to the full force in two shifts, Wilson told 10,500 policemen and women of all ranks that with their support and assistance, he would make the force "not only the best in the country, but in the time after my time, the best police force in the world."

Adenauer Asks U.S. Firmness

Ike Urged To Shun Berlin Concessions

WASHINGTON (AP) — German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer made his personal plea to President Eisenhower today to resist concessions on Berlin at the summit meeting in Paris in May. The visiting West German chancellor had an extended date at the White House, lasting from mid-morning through lunch, then appointments with Secretary of State Christian A. Herter and other State Department officials in the afternoon.

Adenauer was reported ready to advise Eisenhower to avoid the Berlin issue at the summit and place priority instead on progress toward disarmament.

Both Germany-Berlin and disarmament are on the agenda for Eisenhower's mid-May summit talks in Paris with Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev and the British and French chiefs.

Adenauer was known to feel that no good can come from a temporary deal on West Berlin, the Red-encircled city from which Khrushchev wants all Allied troops withdrawn.

Eisenhower and Herter in turn were reported prepared to promise not to sell out the West Berliners. But U.S. officials said they also intended to retain freedom to offer some concessions if Khrushchev gives guarantees improving the Allies' shaky hold on the city.

Adenauer, on a two-week tour of the United States, arrived Monday night for his 2½-day stop in the capital.

House Studies Referee Plan

Vote Rights Tacked On to Disputed Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — Civil rights advocates drove today for House approval of a voting referee plan to resolve the long wrangle over legislation against racial discrimination at the polls. There were even some "anticarpetbag" sweeteners in it for the Southerners, who were still fighting it vigorously. Members outside the South generally were supporting the revised proposal.

The major test vote was expected late today, paving the way for a final House vote on the bill about Thursday.

The House GOP leader, Rep. Charles A. Halleck of Indiana, told newsmen he thinks the House could write "a fine law" by incorporating the revised administration plan for referees into the stripped-down bill before it.

Halleck said the Senate might well agree to such a bill and end the marathon battle raging on that side of the Capitol for exactly a month.

The Senate continued battling over various provisions of its own civil rights legislation despite a general expectation it eventually will accept whatever the House passes.

The House in swift parliamentary moves Monday discarded two administration civil rights proposals that might have led to prolonged debate. Both were ruled out of order on grounds they were not closely enough related to the main bill.

They would have provided for: A commission to safeguard Negro and other minority employment rights on government contracts.

Financial aid to school districts changing from segregated school systems.

Employment Shows Climb In February

WASHINGTON (AP) — Employment rose in February to 64,520,000, a record for the month. Unemployment took an unusual drop of 218,000.

Announcing the figures today, Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell said they indicate continued improvement in the economic situation.

February employment was up 500,000 from January and was about 1,800,000 above February of last year.

This February's total employment was about 1,300,000 higher than the old February job record reached in 1957.

Unemployment, which usually increases in February, was 800,000 below February of last year.

The seasonally adjusted ratio of unemployment to the total work force moved down to 4.8 per cent in February from 5.2 per cent in January. It was the lowest such ratio since October, 1957.

The drop in unemployment was down from a total of 4,149,000 in January to 3,931,000 in February. Seymour Wolfbein, deputy assistant secretary of labor said he feels definitely that the job picture is steadily brightening and reflects continued improvement in the economic situation generally.

Wolfbein predicted still more job improvements in the next few months. He said this is due to happen on a seasonal basis, with the advent of warmer weather, and does not depend on further general economic gains.

Headwaiter Indicted For Income Tax Dodge

NEW YORK (AP) — A former headwaiter at the Copacabana restaurant and night club has been indicted on charges of evading $14,294 in income taxes.

Ronald E. Egleston, 50, who resigned from the club last month, was charged Monday with reporting only $14,879 of $58,000 he earned for 1953 through 1955.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Charles E. Chamberlain (R-Mich.) wants the Post Office to issue a stamp to honor Polish pianist Ignace Paderewski. Nov. 6 will mark the 100th anniversary of Paderewski's birth.

2 Postal Officials Killed by Robbers

CHICAGO (AP)—The FBI and police hunted today for three mail thieves who shot and killed two post office investigators in their car minutes after they trapped the robbers.

A half-dozen shots were fired into the bodies of the two inspectors by the three robbers, all Negroes, who fled after the shooting late Monday night on the southwest edge of the Loop.

The inspectors had seized the trio and several sacks of mail from their car and were about to drive them to a police station when the shooting broke out.

The inspectors apparently over-looked guns the robbers had concealed and they had no chance to return the fire. Both men were armed with 38 caliber service revolvers but neither gun was fired.

The victims were Ben Spizzirri, 42, father of five young children, and John McAuliffe Jr., 36, father of two. McAuliffe, who was in the driver's seat, was shot in the right chest and shoulder. Spizzirri was killed by shots in the right jaw and head. Police recovered one .32 caliber bullet from Spizzirri's body.

Police said Winton Murray, 26, a truck driver whose car was halted at a traffic signal at the Roosevelt Road-Clark St. intersection, saw the slayings and described the scene.

He said the inspectors stopped three Negroes in a car and drove with them to a second car parked nearby. One of the two inspectors removed several bags of mail from the trunk of the robbers' car.

Seconds after he stepped into the car with the robbers and the second inspector, a half-dozen shots rang out. Three men jumped from the car. Two got into the other car and their companion jumped on a bus.

Murray, a Negro, said he called police. They found both inspectors slumped over in the front seat of their car.

Ohio Farm Bureau Leaders Seek Reserve Cash Setup

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ohio Farm Bureau delegates sought out their congressmen today, hoping to sell a plan to double the conservation reserve cash payment program.

But at least one congressman, Rep. Robert Levering (D-Ohio), wasn't accepting the idea in its present form. He said that, among other things, the proposal principally would benefit prosperous farmers with plenty of land to spare.

The program in question pays farmers for taking cropland out of production.

The Ohio Farm Bureau delegates—here on their annual Washington visit—want to boost payments to about a half-billion dollars a year nationally by 1963.

This, they say, would reduce surpluses and bolster sagging farm income.

Levering, author of a farm bill tagged as unacceptable by the Ohio Farm Bureau, said in response to a reporter's question he has three objections to their proposal.

"In the first place, they want to pay out in cash," Levering said. "I think payments should be in surplus crops. That way we could get at the reduction of surpluses right away."

"Number two: They want to take entire farms out of production. I think that is dangerous to merchants on Main Street in America, who sell gas, fertilizer and seed to farmers. They could not do that if the farmers were retired."

"Third, we have to face this as a practical matter: Many city members of Congress object to the idea of paying cash for doing nothing."

"I do hope we can work out some sort of compromise, but it's a hard idea to sell."

Levering's farm bill, a duplicate of a number being introduced by Democrats here, was described in the literature carried by the Ohio Farm Bureau delegates as "a Brannan-type plan."

This refers to former Agriculture Secretary Charles Brannan's proposal to let farm prices seek their natural level, then give the

Refuge Areas Found Empty

West Virginia State Expert Tells of Fear

LOGAN, W. Va. (AP) — Hope ebbed today for rescue of 18 trapped coal miners as rescue teams probed the areas where they might have taken refuge and found no one.

One area was found empty Monday night and another this morning. There were no signs of the men at the entrance to the third and final refuge where the men, trapped since last Tuesday, may have gone.

"If they're up toward the slope, they're dead," said Paul Lingo, deputy state mines director.

Basic mine safety instructions call for trapped men to use chalk or other means to leave signs for rescuers.

The 18 were cut off about 8 a. m. last Tuesday when a small rock slide snapped an electric cable that ignited some timbers. The timbers in turn started a smoldering fire in the coal.

Communication was maintained with the miners for about four hours until that line, too, was broken, apparently burned through by the fire.

There are three honeycombed refuge areas, or "rooms," off the main passageway where the men might have barricaded themselves from the deadly fumes and smoke passageway to an old mine entrance on the other side of the mountain. This way has been blocked for some time, and safety officials consider it the worst choice the men could have made.

The rescue team sent out to reach the third area—100 feet deeper in the mine—was told to check the barricade at its entrance for signs of the men but not to break any seal which might be protecting the trapped men from deadly fumes.

Hope was running high Monday when one crew finally reached its goal workers had been striving toward for more than six days—an underground room where the men might have taken refuge.

No one was there. It was empty except for the objects here and there.

One week ago today the 18 were trapped at work as the rocky roof of their tunnel tumbled down, igniting a stubborn fire which is still smoldering.

Rescuers struck out for a larger room 1,200 feet deeper into the mine. There was no official word on how long it might take to get there.

Fading Winter Kicks Up New Snowstorms

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Fading winter kicked up another snowstorm across broad areas in the midcontinent and parts of the Southeast today, five days before its official demise.

It was the fourth major snowstorm this month and came as many communities still were digging out from last week's heavy falls. Spring arrives Sunday morning at 9:43 a. m. EST.

The snow belt covered wide areas extending from northern sections of Alabama and Mississippi northwestward through the mid-Mississippi Valley and parts of the Plains and Rockies.

Schools in some parts of the snow belt were closed.

Heaviest snowfall during the night was from the central Plains eastward through Missouri and much of Tennessee and from Kansas into the Dakotas.

The fresh storm left a covering of more than 9 inches in parts of Kansas and warnings of falls ranging from 4 to 12 inches in Missouri were issued by the Weather Bureau.

Ohio Fuel Gas Co. Output Sets Record

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) —The Ohio Fuel Gas Co. reported today that it had delivered more natural gas between Feb. 9 and March 10 than during any other 31-day period in its history. The company sent out 50.9 billion cubic feet during the period, surpassing the previous record of 49.1 billion set between Jan. 4 and Feb. 3, 1959. Average temperature during the period was 24 degrees over the state.

West 'Wins' Travel Fuss

Soviets Discard German Passes

BERLIN (AP) — A stubborn West Monday night won its battle with the Soviet Union over new travel passes for Western military missions in East Germany. Word of the passes implied recognition of the Soviet puppet regime.

The Soviets discarded the passes after month-long Western refusal to accept them and retaliation against Soviet missions in West Germany.

The passes would have authorized the United States, British and French military missions stationed at Potsdam, East Germany to travel in the "German Democratic Republic." The old passes, now back in effect, authorize travel in "the Soviet zone of Germany."

The Western Allies contended use of the passes would imply recognition of the East German regime, which they contend is an illegal, unrepresentative government.

The Soviets' surprising about-face came at a meeting of the heads of the Western missions with the Soviet chief of staff in East Germany, Lt. Gen. G. V. Voronov.

The official East German news agency ADN said Voronov told the Western representatives: "guided by the desire not to worsen relations among the great powers, especially in view of the forthcoming summit conference, the Soviet government has authorized the supreme commander to make no changes until further notice in the passes issued previously."

8,000 Cheer As Hoffa Rips Various Foes

NEW YORK (AP) —Teamsters Union President James R. Hoffa hurled criticism at most of his adversaries Monday night at a Madison Square Garden rally.

An estimated 8,000 cheering Teamsters and members of their families filled the garden.

The Teamsters president had angry words for recent labor legislation, Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass.) his brother, "little Bobby Kennedy," AFL-CIO President George Meany, and Auto Workers President Walter Reuther, the press, radio, and television.

Sen. Kennedy, who helped write the new labor law, was a member of the Senate committee which investigated union and management rackets. His brother, Robert F. Kennedy, was chief counsel of the committee.

His audience enthusiastically whistled and cheered as Hoffa turned to reporters covering the rally and said: "There is no use talking to reporters. Distortion is what you can expect from the press. Editors are controlled by big business."

Khrushchev Sees Total Disarmament As 'Not Far Off'

LONDON (AP)—Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev told the 10-nation Geneva Conference on disarmament in a message today that the day when the world will live without arms or war "is not far off."

Moscow radio quoted Khrushchev's message as stating that Soviet representatives at the conference had been instructed "to assist in every way its fruitful work and to strive for the early drafting of an agreement on total and universal disarmament."

Khrushchev expressed hope other participants in the conference will "also make their contribution to the practical solution of the problem of total and universal disarmament."

He said the Soviet government is ready "to consider attentively" all relevant proposals and wished the conference "successful and fruitful work for the good of the peoples."

Earlier, U.S. Ambassador Frederick A. Eason told the Geneva conference that it "must take immediate action to prevent the extension of the arms race to outer space."

This problem has arisen since the collapse of the last previous negotiations on disarmament in London in 1957.

Eaton stressed that arrangements to cut back forces and weapons must be subject to fool-proof controls. He added that "the initial steps must not be overly ambitious."

Both Eaton and British Minister of State David Ormsby-Gore stressed that the control problem would need to be carefully worked out. The American delegation leader said:

"It has been said that there must be no inspection without commensurate disarmament. Conversely, the security of the world requires that there be no disarmament without commensurate inspection. We must patiently find our way through this difficulty."

The West's plan for ending the arms race calls for creation of an international disarmament organization with ultimate power to enforce disarmament. The rival Eastern plan is based on Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev's call for total disarmament within four years. He first unveiled it in a speech to the U.N. General Assembly last Sept. 18.

The conference likely will set up teams of experts which may deliberate for months or even years.

Buzzards Return To Hinckley OK

CLEVELAND (AP)—The buzzards came back to Hinckley today—right on time.

At sunrise six of the big birds were sighted over the little Medina County crossroads community, according to Carl H. Neu, Hinckley's publicist.

"We expect a whole flock of them before the day is out," Neu said. "Those birds are not only wonderful navigators, they also can tell time."

The birds flock to Hinckley every year on March 15—leap year or not.

Neu said the buzzards started visiting Hinckley 15 years ago. They spend the summer at Whipp's Ledges.

U.S. negotiators were told to expect to stay in Geneva at least a year. But a Soviet commentator in Moscow called for speedy action.

For the first time in more than a decade of arms talks, East and West were meeting on an equal numerical basis. On the Western side were the United States, Britain, France, Italy and Canada. Representing the Communist bloc were the Soviet Union, Poland, Romania, Czechoslovakia and Bulgaria.

The West's plan calls for three general stages.

First it would set up an international disarmament organization, linked to the United Nations, to begin studies of all phases of disarmament. All nations would be spending for military purposes. The United States and the

Miller Says DiSalle Wants No 'Peace'

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Big chiefs Ray T. Miller Sr. and Gov. Michael V. DiSalle are still on the warpath.

Miller, Cuyahoga County Democratic chairman, was asked at a press conference Monday night if he thought peace was possible between him and DiSalle at any time. Replied Miller:

"DiSalle doesn't talk like a peaceful Indian. He wants scalps."

Whose scalps? "He wants any scalp that opposes him," Miller answered.

The Cuyahoga County chieftain said his controversy with DiSalle is "a temper in a teapot—but it's his (DiSalle's) temper."

Miller and DiSalle are at odds over selection of delegation to the Democratic National Convention. Miller has drawn up a partial slate of delegate candidates to oppose DiSalle's full slate in the May 3 primary.

Both slates are pledged to support Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass.) for the presidential nomination.

However, Miller wants to follow Kennedy's leadership all the way. That is, if Kennedy is not nominated, Miller wants Kennedy to say whom the Ohio delegation should support.

DiSalle, as favorite son of his delegate state, wants Ohio delegates to caucus if Kennedy is not nominated and decide on their own whom they should support.

Man's Marriage Brings Petty Theft Arrest

REDWOOD CITY, Calif. (AP)—Kenneth Beaver faces petty theft charges because he got married. Beaver, a 35-year-old painter, married his housekeeper, Nancy Rehholz, whom he had hired to look after a teen-age daughter by his divorced wife.

As long as he was not married he could draw funds for a housekeeper from the San Mateo County Welfare Department. But he failed to notify the department of his marriage and it now charges his collection of $557 since then constitutes petty theft.

Two Crash Victims on Critical List

Two persons injured in two three-car crashes Saturday night on Route 23 near Circleville remained in "critical" condition today.

Still on the critical list are Virgil Ogan, 42, Route 7, Chillicothe, and Judith Ann Lyons, 19, Columbus.

Elbert E. LeMaster, 23, Lockbourne Air Force Base, was listed "critical" shortly after the accident. However, he regained consciousness yesterday and was reported "fair" today.

Ogan suffered severe head injuries. Miss Lyons received fractures of both legs, a fractured jaw and head injuries.

LEMASTER suffered an open fracture of the left leg, concussion and multiple lacerations.

Ronald G. Nutter, 28, Route 1, Groveport, received a severe laceration from the nose to the chin. It required 90 stitches to close the wound. He remained in "fair" condition today.

A total of 15 persons were injured in the two crashes which involved three cars each. One collision came at 6:25 p. m. on Route 23 about three miles south of here. The other was at 11:18 p. m. on Route 23 about three miles north of the city.

Sheriff Charles H. Radcliff termed the accidents as being among the most severe on record here in view of the serious injuries and extensive damage.

The only local car involved was driven by Roy Ward, 25, of 350 John St. He suffered head and chest injuries and was listed in "fair" condition in Mt. Carmel Hospital, Columbus.

Ward's wife, Doris, 25, and daughter, Linda, 4, were reported "satisfactory" today. Ogan was a passenger in the Ward car.

Hospital Patient Changes TV Shows With Pressure Can

BAY SHORE, N.Y. (AP)—When hospital patient Edward McBride wants to switch television programs, he can press his remote control gadget—or squeeze a can of air deodorant. Either one does the job.

McBride was perfectly happy with the show on his remote control TV set Monday. He just wanted to "freshen up" his hospital room a bit. So he squeezed the air deodorant can. Presto, a new TV channel flashed on.

With each squirt, he found, a new channel popped up. The can worked on ten other TV sets in the hospital and failed on five. Other push-button cans did nothing except what they were supposed to do.

A TV specialist explained that through some fluke the deodorant can had created an ultra-high frequency sound wave that triggered the channel-changing mechanism in the sets.

House Studies Referee Plan

Vote Rights Tacked On to Disputed Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — Civil rights advocates drove today for House approval of a voting referee plan to resolve the long wrangle over legislation against racial discrimination at the polls.

There were even some "anti-carpetbag" sweeteners in it for the Southerners, who were still fighting it vigorously. Members outside the South generally were supporting the revised proposal.

The major test vote was expected late today, paving the way for a final House vote on the bill about Thursday.

The House GOP leader, Rep. Charles A. Halleck of Indiana, told newsmen he thinks the House could write "a fine law" by incorporating the revised administration plan for referees into the stripped-down bill before it.

Halleck said the Senate might well agree to such a bill and end the marathon hassle raging on that side of the Capitol for exactly a month.

The Senate continued battling over various provisions of its own civil rights legislation despite a general expectation it eventually will accept whatever the House passes.

The House in swift parliamentary moves Monday discarded two administration civil rights proposals that might have led to prolonged debate. Both were ruled out of order on grounds they were not closely enough related to the main bill.

They would have provided for: A commission to safeguard Negro and other minority employment rights on government contracts.

Financial aid to school districts changing from segregated school systems.

Employment Shows Climb In February

WASHINGTON (AP) — Employment rose in February to 64,520,000, a record for the month. Unemployment took an unusual drop of 218,000.

Announcing the figures today, Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell said they indicate continued improvement in the economic situation.

February employment was up 500,000 from January and was about 1,800,000 above February of last year.

This February's total employment was about 1,300,000 higher than the old February job record reached in 1957.

Unemployment, which usually increases in February, was 800,000 below February of last year. The seasonally adjusted ratio of unemployment to the total work force moved down to 4.8 per cent in February from 5.2 per cent in January. It was the lowest such ratio since October, 1957.

The drop in unemployment was down from a total of 4,149,000 in January to 3,931,000 in February.

Seymour Wolfstein, deputy assistant secretary of labor said he feels definitely that the job picture is steadily brightening and reflects continued improvement in the economic situation generally.

Wolfstein predicted still more job improvements in the next few months. He said this is due to happen on a seasonal basis, with the advent of warmer weather, and does not depend on further general economic gains.

Paderewski Stamp Asked

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Charles E. Chamberlain (R-Mich.) wants the Post Office to issue a stamp to honor Polish pianist Ignace Paderewski. Nov. 6 will mark the 100th anniversary of Paderewski's birth.

2 Postal Officials Killed by Robbers

CHICAGO (AP)—The FBI and police hunted today for three mail thieves who shot and killed two post office investigators in their car minutes after they trapped the robbers.

A half-dozen shots were fired in the bodies of the two inspectors by the three robbers, all Negroes, who fled after the shooting late Monday night on the southwest edge of the Loop.

The inspectors had seized the trio and several sacks of mail from their car and were about to drive them to a police station when the shooting broke out.

The inspectors apparently overlooked guns the robbers had concealed and they had no chance to return the fire. Both men were armed with .38 caliber service revolvers but neither gun was fired.

The victims were Ben Spizzirri, 42, father of five young children, and John McAuliffe Jr., 36, father of two. McAuliffe, who was in the driver's seat, was shot in the right chest and shoulder. Spizzirri was killed by shots in the right jaw and head. Police recovered one .32 caliber bullet from Spizzirri's body.

Police said Winton Murray, 26, a truck driver whose car was halted at a traffic signal at the Roosevelt Road-Clark St. intersection, saw the slayings and described the scene.

He said the inspectors stopped three Negroes in a car and drove with them to a second car parked nearby. One of the two inspectors removed several bags of mail from the trunk of the robbers' car.

Seconds after he stepped into the car with the robbers and the second inspector, a half-dozen shots rang out. Three men jumped from the car. Two got into the other car and their companion jumped on a bus.

Murray, a Negro, said he called police. They found both inspectors slumped over in the front seat of their car.

Ohio Farm Bureau Leaders Seek Reserve Cash Setup

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ohio Farm Bureau delegates sought out their congressmen today, hoping to sell a plan to double the conservation reserve cash payment program.

But at least one congressman, Rep. Robert Levering (D-Ohio), wasn't accepting the idea in its present form. He said that, among other things, the proposal principally would benefit prosperous farmers with plenty of land to spare.

The program in question pays farmers for taking cropland out of production.

The Ohio Farm Bureau delegates—here on their annual Washington visit—want to boost payments to about a half-billion dollars a year nationally by 1963.

This, they say, would reduce surpluses and bolster sagging farm income.

Levering, author of a farm bill tagged as unacceptable by the Ohio Farm Bureau, said in response to a reporter's question he has three objections to their proposal.

"In the first place, they want to pay out in cash," Levering said. "I think payments should be in surplus crops. That way we could get at the reduction of surpluses right away."

"Number two: They want to take entire farms out of production. I think that is dangerous to merchants on Main Street in America, who sell gas, fertilizer and seed to farmers. They could not do that if the farmers were retired."

"Third, we have to face this as a practical matter: Many city members of Congress object to the idea of paying cash for doing nothing."

"I do hope we can work out some sort of compromise, but it's a hard idea to sell."

Levering's farm bill, a duplicate of a number being introduced by Democrats here, was described in the literature carried by the Ohio Farm Bureau delegates as "a Brannan-type plan."

This refers to former Agriculture Secretary Charles Brannan's proposal to let farm prices seek their natural level, then give the

Ham Radio Man Gets Distress Call

CINCINNATI (AP)—A hoax or a real distress call?

Charles Gilliam, a ham radio operator here, says the call sounded genuine enough.

He picked up the "Mayday" Monday night from a source that reported it was the submarine USS Dolphin and had just nudged an iceberg in the North Atlantic.

But the Navy in Washington said it had no reports of a sub in trouble, and the old Dolphin, launched back in 1932, saw World War II service but is no longer in commission.

Gilliam said he talked for two hours with the craft which gave a position of 60 degrees north, 35 degrees west, or between Greenland and Iceland.

Refuge Areas Found Empty

West Virginia State Expert Tells of Fear

LOGAN, W. Va. (AP) — Hope ebbed today for rescue of 18 trapped coal miners as rescue teams probed the areas where they might have taken refuge and found no one.

One area was found empty Monday night and another this morning. There were no signs of the men at the entrance to the third and final refuge where the men, trapped since last Tuesday, may have gone.

"If they're up toward the slope, they're dead," said Paul Lingo, deputy state mines director.

Basic mine safety instructions call for trapped men to use chalk or other means to leave signs for rescuers.

The 18 were cut off about 8 a. m. last Tuesday when a small rock slide snapped an electric cable that ignited some timbers. The timbers in turn started a smoldering fire in the coal.

Communication was maintained with the miners for about four hours until that line, too, was broken, apparently burned through by the fire.

There are three honeycombed refuge areas, or "rooms," off the main passageway where the men might have barricaded themselves from the deadly fumes and smoke passageway to an old mine entrance on the other side of the mountain. This way, has been blocked for some time, and safety officials consider it the worst choice the men could have made.

The rescue team sent out to reach the third area—100 feet deeper in the mine—was told to check the barricade at its entrance for signs of the men but not to break any seal which might be protecting the trapped men from deadly fumes.

Hope was running high Monday when one crew finally reached the goal workers had been striving toward for more than six days—an underground room where the men might have taken refuge.

No one was there. It was empty except for the objects here and there.

One week ago today the 18 were trapped at work as the rocky roof of their tunnel tumbled down, igniting a stubborn fire which is still smoldering.

Rescuers struck out for a larger room 1,200 feet deeper into the mine. There was no official word on how long it might take to get there.

Fading Winter Kicks Up New Snowstorms

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Fading winter kicked up another snowstorm across broad areas in the midcontinent and parts of the Southeast today, five days before its official demise.

It was the fourth major snowstorm this month and came as many communities still were digging out from last week's heavy falls. Spring arrives Sunday morning at 9:43 a. m. EST.

The snow belt covered wide areas extending from northern sections of Alabama and Mississippi northwestward through the mid-Mississippi Valley and parts of the Plains and Rockies.

Schools in some parts of the snow belt were closed.

Heaviest snowfall during the night was from the central Plains eastward through Missouri and much of Tennessee and from Kansas into the Dakotas.

More than 9 inches in parts of Kansas and warnings of falls ranging from 4 to 12 inches in Missouri were issued by the Weather Bureau.

Census Leaders For County Named

Mrs. Eugene P. Hanson, Ridge-wood Drive, and Mrs. Alfred R. Johnson, Route 2, Williamsport, recently were named crew leaders for the 1960 census of population and housing in Pickaway County.

Their appointment was made by census supervisor of the Sixth Congressional District, Don E. Fuller. Temporary Census Bureau district office is in Chillicothe.

Mrs. Hansen's territory includes Circleville, Ashville, Tarlton, Commercial Point and Orient and the townships of Circleville, Pickaway, Washington, Salt Creek, Wayne, Walnut, Harrison, Madison, Scioto, Perry and Muhlenberg.

Mrs. Johnson's territory covers the townships of Deercreek, Jackson, Darby and Monroe and Williamsport plus Highland County.

CREW LEADERS were selected on the basis of scores received from an examination which covered map reading, psychology and reading. More than 200 persons took the test in the district with 27 passing.

Mrs. Hansen will supervise 19 enumerators in the big nationwide census which starts April 1 and is expected to end in six to nine days.

Crew leader training began Wednesday. Topics covered in the training sessions included procedures for recruiting of census takers; how to train census takers;

Canvassing methods, preparation and submission of reports and the supervision of census takers to insure a complete and accurate count.

The crew leader is one of the key people in the field operations of the 1960 Census. It is her responsibility to recruit and train the census takers;

Plan and allocate work assignments, review the work of the census takers, take remedial action where necessary and to handle problems of difficult enumeration.

MRS. HANSEN administered the final tests to potential enumerators this morning in the Lutheran Church.

She said each household will receive a questionnaire to be filled out as far as possible. Census takers then will call on all households and help fill out balance of questionnaire.

Every fourth household will receive an additional detailed questionnaire which will ask more specific questions. She said it is a federal offense to destroy these questionnaires.

There will be five enumerators for Circleville and 14 in the townships and villages under the supervision of Mrs. Hansen.

She said her field representative will be Mrs. W. C. Watson, Route 1, Mrs. Watson worked in the agriculture census taken recently.

All information taken from households will be in strictest confidence.

CREW LEADER for Ross County is Mrs. Gayle F. Streitenberger, Route 2, Kingston.

Announcement of enumerators under Mrs. Hansen's supervision will be announced Thursday if test results are received from the Cincinnati Census Bureau.

Stock Mart Widens Its Initial Gain

NEW YORK (AP)—Steels, motors, chemicals and electronics did well as the stock market widened initial gains in moderately active trading early this afternoon.

Advances of from fractions to well over a point were scattered throughout the list of pivotal stocks. Some of the higher-priced or more speculative issues did even better.

The market was up irregularly at the start and caution was apparent. Late in the morning the steels moved ahead solidly and the rest of the list followed along.

Hopes of the end of bad weather would boom auto sales gave rise to talk of a spring rally. The four-day consecutive rise of the rail average also was encouraging. There was some gossip to the effect that mutual funds were doing some buying.

The Dow Jones industrial averages at noon was up 3.62 to 610.41. The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up 1.00 to 212.60 with the industrials up 1.50, the rails up .40 and the utilities up .50.

Corporate bonds rose in fairly active trading. U.S. government bonds advanced.

Khrushchev . . .

(Continued from Page 1) Soviet Union would cut their armed forces to 2½ million men each. The armed forces of other nations would also be reduced.

All nations also would place agreed quantities of conventional armaments into storage depots in their own territories. Studies would be made of ways to police a cutoff in the manufacture of nuclear materials for military purposes and of transforming nuclear military stockpiles to peaceful uses.

In the second stage another disarmament conference would be called to include Red China and all other nations with powerful military forces.

This phase would ban use of space vehicles for mass destruction after installation of an effective control system. Nations would have to notify the international organization when they planned to launch missiles for peaceful purposes.

Production of fissionable materials would halt, and "agreed quantities of production (would be) transferred under international supervision and control to non-weapons uses, including stockpiling."

Armed forces levels would again be reduced, with the ceiling for the United States and the Soviet Union lowered to 2,000,000 men and "corresponding reductions in other countries."

The final stage would reduce all armed forces to levels so small none could "effectively oppose enforcement of international law." Only armed forces sufficient for internal security would remain.

This would be accompanied by a ban on all weapons of mass destruction, including nuclear, chemical and biological. Existing stockpiles would be reduced or transformed for peaceful purposes with the eventual aim of "the final elimination of these weapons." The international organization would control even national military budgets.

Former Mrs. Chessman Says He Had Yen for Easy Money

LOS ANGELES (AP)—On Aug. 8, 1940 a 16-year-old high school girl married a boy of 18 with dark, curly hair and a bad reputation. His name: Caryl Chessman.

"Like all women," said the attractive housewife who was once that girl, "I thought, 'I'll change him.' But he's not to be changed."

The former Mrs. Chessman married and is a mother. The early part of her life is so completely closed she agreed to talk to newsmen who traced her only if they would promise not to use her name.

She told a story of a brief marriage that was happy except for one thing: Her young husband wanted to make money the easy way.

"I began to have suspicions when I looked in his drawer and found it loaded with all kinds of artillery—from the biggest to the smallest. Then in 1941 he came home one night and dumped a sackful of money on the bed," she said.

"The bed was just covered with money. I fussed and got mad, but laughed."

Chessman is awaiting execution. The death date—his eighth—is May 2. Newsmen asked the woman if she thought he would escape death this time, as he had the previous seven, through legal maneuvers or action by the governor.

"I think he will be executed," she said.

She said, she thinks he is innocent of charges of kidnapping and sex perversion.

"There was nothing abnormal about him, whatsoever," said the former Mrs. Chessman. "Even when we were going together as high school kids he always respected 'no.' He was never one to use force."

Editor Heads New Education Study Panel

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—William Ware, assistant Sunday editor of the Cleveland Plain Dealer, has been named general chairman of the second Statehouse Conference on Education.

The conference calls for hundreds of meetings to be conducted around the state this year to discuss the needs of education in Ohio.

At local meetings this fall, citizens will discuss the needs of public schools in their community. The local gathering will be kicked off with six regional meetings next month, and will culminate with a state conference, probably in Columbus next January.

Regional meetings will be held April 14 at Ohio State University here; April 19 at Ohio University, Athens; April 20 at Bowling Green State University; April 22 at Kent State University; April 23 at Miami University, Oxford, and April 30 at Western Reserve University, Cleveland.

The first Statehouse Conference on Education was held in 1958 when some 70,000 citizens participated in the local meetings. More than 4,000 delegates attended the state conference during which specific recommendations were made to the State Board of Education on how public education in Ohio could be improved.

Federal Report On Job Totals Raises Question

Evaluation Is Made
Of Government Tally
On Unemployment

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst
NEW YORK (AP)—The good news today from Washington that February saw a drop in the jobless total and record highs for that month in unemployment brings up two questions:

1. Has the trend lasted up till now or has it been reversed this month?
2. How can the government tell how many are out of work and how many drawing paychecks?

On the first point, the sampling of employment and unemployment was taken in the middle of February. Many of the industrial layoffs that have been publicized have come since then.

To evaluate the official report as an indicator of business trends, remember:
The slowdown in a few industries has involved some plant shutdowns but perhaps in many more instances a pruning of the work week. These workers aren't out of a job, they are just getting less pay at the end of the shorter week. And they still are listed on the government's employment estimate.

In assessing its figures on employment the government takes into account seasonal factors. For example, unemployment in January was higher than in December. The temporary workers with post-Christmas jobs in stores, the post office and the like, were looking for work again.

This usually holds over into February, influenced largely by bad winter weather which takes a toll of outdoor jobs — except for snow removal crews in the cities.

But Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell, speaking of mid-February, assures you that this time there was "a decrease in unemployment, which is quite unusual for this time of the year." And he has high hopes for large employment totals every month this year.

This could help quiet jittery nerves in Wall Street and soothe businessmen wondering how much they should order, how much they should spend for inventories, new equipment or new plants.

The government's figures on the jobless and the employed are estimates. It admits it can't poll everyone every month.

What it does is take a sampling, and then check this against some other reports it gets from industry and from state agencies.

Its own sampling involves visiting 35,000 homes each month and asking how many in the family are employed and how many are looking for work without finding it. These go into the total of employment and unemployment. And the total of both is called the nation's labor force.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Welfare Arthur S. Flemming describes Vice Admiral Hyman Rickover as very unfair for calling federal education officials "characters."

Flemming said Rickover's unfavorable comparison of the Office of Education with the education techniques of the Russian was "very, very unfortunate and has a bad effect on morale."

In testimony made public by a House appropriations subcommittee, the former Ohio Wesleyan University president continued:

"I am confident of the fact that if someone with competence in the field in which Adm. Rickover operates should refer to his associates in that manner — as just a group of characters—that he would resent it."

Last August, Rickover testified before an appropriations subcommittee on his observations of the Soviet school system. He asserted that Russian high school students have much better instruction than those in the United States.

Then, in response to questions, he criticized both the Office of Education, which is under Flemming's jurisdiction, and the National Education Assn.

Asked who the "characters" were, he said they were the "progressive educationists" who train children in frills and not in hard mental work.

Owners Died as Millionaires

$25 Worth of Furniture Has $7,800 Storage Bill

CLEVELAND (AP) — The full story, fascinating to speculate about and more than a little ironic, may never be known.

A few weeks ago an odd collection of furniture, carefully stored away in Cleveland more than 41 years ago, was finally claimed for disposition.

Over the years the cost of storing the goods, always promptly paid, ran close to $7,800.

Appraisers sadly shook their heads when the locker was opened and they surveyed its treasures. They were practically worthless.

The entire lot went to the highest bidder for $25.

The story began Oct. 31, 1918, when the furniture was placed in storage with the Andrews Moving & Storage Co.

The receipts piled up there over the years but little was known of the owners. Everybody referred to the assortment simply as "The Tanner Lot."

The owners, it was learned, both died as millionaires in California.

They were Charles (Doc) Tanner, for half a century a famous handler and reinsman of trotting horses, who used to own a share of North Randall Track, when it raced trotters, and his wife, Susie. Tanner, who died in 1955, left an estate of $1,800,000.

His widow who died last Nov. 19 at 86, left an independent estate of about $2,800,000.

They had no children.

His estate went to friends and a cousin. Hers will be divided by nearest of kin.

In addition to a couch, tables and barrels of dishes, such as normally stored when families move, the Tanners also put aside a carpet sweeper, curtain stretchers, eight rocking chairs, costumes, a shirt-waist box, four Morris chairs and a 1916 model wind-up record player.

For a few years the Tanners made some additions and removals as they moved from place to place.

By telephone from Santa Barbara, Calif., a lawyer for Mrs. Tanner's estate recently shed light on their wealth. He is Yale B. Griffith, who related:

"Doc Tanner started buying some stock around the turn of the century in Union Carbide Corp., as it is known today. He used to drive horses, you know, for C. K. G. Billings, who was chairman of Union Carbide."

"He must have got tips. . . . He had one piece of paper, biggest in value I've ever seen. It was a certificate for 12,000 shares. "They apparently moved to Santa Barbara around 1925. They spent most of their earlier lives living in hotels and finally rest homes."

"Then, his wife also left an estate mainly of Union Carbide stock. She left a will that's a real teaser. She left her estate to her husband, who had died before her. She never changed it."

"In effect, she died without a will," Griffith went on.

It was Griffith who, in closing up affairs of the estate, ordered disposition of the goods stored in Cleveland.

"We discovered most of it was like a 1925 car—too old to drive but not old enough to be a valuable antique," he said. "We ordered it sold to the highest bidder."

T. E. Thompson, Cleveland auctioneer, who bought most of the goods, said a lot of it ended up in a city dump.

"Some of it was absolutely useless," Thompson said. "Such things as a big old-fashioned ice box with zinc trays, old iron beds and a cedar chest, the glued joints of which had fallen apart."

Offhand, he did not recall where purchased items went.

Ohio Experts Open Study of Embryo Diets

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Why the strange urge for dill pickles and cream puffs among mothers-to-be.

Is this nature's way of fulfilling the need for certain vitamins by the human embryo?

The answer to these and other questions concerning nutrition and the embryo may be found as the result of research now under way at Ohio State University here.

Purpose of the investigation is to learn more about the functions of specific nutrients so that improved maternal diets can be designed.

The study is being conducted by Dr. Edward C. Naber, associate professor in OSU's Department of Poultry Science.

He is studying the effect of anti-vitamins on chick embryos. Anti-vitamins act against vitamins and can be used to create vitamin deficiencies within a developing embryo.

By observing the effect of the anti-vitamin, Naber may be able to determine the function of the vitamin in basic embryonic development.

Since the early developmental anatomy of the chick and the human embryo is similar, Naber feels the study may yield much information applicable to human nutrition.

Truth Finally Told on 1942 Mine Blast: 1,500 Killed

TOKYO (AP) — A series of tremendous explosions ripped through the Honkeiko colliery in Manchuria April 26, 1942.

Five days later Manchuria's Japanese puppet government announced in a communique there were "not a few victims."

This was a laconic summary of the greatest mine disaster in the history of the world. More than 1,500 men, chiefly Chinese and Manchurian colliers, had perished.

The Japanese military, whose war machine was being fed by the Honkeiko colliery and the industries in the area, didn't want the rest of the world to know what happened.

A rigid censorship was imposed. And when Japan was defeated in 1945, much of the story of the Honkeiko disaster went up in the smoke of burned documents and papers.

This story can be pieced together:

The colliery was situated in a great industrial section of southern Manchuria near Fushun. It was operated by the semi-government Manchurian Heavy Industries Corp., which developed Manchuria for Japan.

The government communique said the accident occurred in the lower stratum of the Ryuto pit.

"As soon as the accident occurred, the company organized rescue squads and made the utmost effort to prevent a spread of the disaster," it said.

"At present, reconstruction is proceeding smoothly. Coal mine operations were partially resumed on April 30. A complete resumption on the scale preceding the accident is expected soon. No damage whatsoever was done to the iron works."

That was the official version. But recently, Zoroku Hatakeyama, 67, managing director of the colliery at the time, told his story in an interview.

Hatakeyama, now chairman of the board of the Mining Welfare Facilities Construction Co., said:

"The Honkeiko colliery was a very rich mine, producing 80,000 to 100,000 tons a month of top grade coking coal.

"We employed over 10,000 Manchurian and Chinese coolies. None was slave labor. They all came on their own free will for the wages we paid."

"I don't remember the exact number of casualties. I think 1,538 seems to be accurate. (The 1960 killed.) All of them, except for about 30 Japanese foremen, were Chinese and Manchurians."

"The first explosion occurred in the lowest passage. Gas leaked out from some cleavage and was ignited by pick sparks. A very violent explosion took place."

"The gas explosion precipitated several cave-ins. At one cave-in an iron cable was cut, producing sparks. Another explosion occurred."

"Then the fire spread and caught coal dust in the under ground air. There was a series of monstrous explosions everywhere."

"Autopsies showed about 300 miners were killed by the blasts. Others could have been saved, if they had not rushed out to main horizontal passages. Those who chose to sit out the explosions in their galleries were rescued."

Adm. Rickover Irks Flemming With Remark

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Welfare Arthur S. Flemming describes Vice Admiral Hyman Rickover as very unfair for calling federal education officials "characters."

Flemming said Rickover's unfavorable comparison of the Office of Education with the education techniques of the Russian was "very, very unfortunate and has a bad effect on morale."

In testimony made public by a House appropriations subcommittee, the former Ohio Wesleyan University president continued:

"I am confident of the fact that if someone with competence in the field in which Adm. Rickover operates should refer to his associates in that manner — as just a group of characters—that he would resent it."

Last August, Rickover testified before an appropriations subcommittee on his observations of the Soviet school system. He asserted that Russian high school students have much better instruction than those in the United States.

Then, in response to questions, he criticized both the Office of Education, which is under Flemming's jurisdiction, and the National Education Assn.

Asked who the "characters" were, he said they were the "progressive educationists" who train children in frills and not in hard mental work.

Federal Report On Job Totals Raises Question

Evaluation Is Made
Of Government Tally
On Unemployment

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst
NEW YORK (AP)—The good news today from Washington that February saw a drop in the jobless total and record highs for that month in employment brings up two questions:

1. Has the trend lasted up till now or has it been reversed this month?

2. How can the government tell how many are out of work and how many drawing paychecks?

On the first point, the sampling of employment and unemployment was taken in the middle of February. Many of the industrial layoffs that have been publicized have come since then.

To evaluate the official report as an indicator of business trends, remember:

The slowdown in a few industries has involved some plant shutdowns but perhaps in many more instances a pruning of the work week. These workers aren't out of a job, they are just getting less pay at the end of the shorter week. And they still are listed on the government's employment estimate.

In assessing its figures on employment the government takes into account seasonal factors. For example, unemployment in January was higher than in December. The temporary workers with pre-Christmas jobs in stores, the post office and the like, were looking for work again.

This usually holds over into February, influenced largely by bad winter weather which takes a toll of outdoor jobs — except for snow removal crews in the cities.

But Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell, speaking of mid-February, assures you that this time there was "a decrease in unemployment, which is quite unusual for this time of the year." And he has high hopes for large employment totals every month this year.

This could help quiet jittery nerves in Wall Street and soothe businessmen wondering how much they should order, how much they should spend for inventories, new equipment or new plants.

The government's figures on the jobless and the employed are estimates. It admits it can't poll everyone every month.

What it does is take a sampling, and then check this against some other reports it gets from industry and from state agencies.

Its own sampling involves visiting 35,000 homes each month and asking how many in the family are employed and how many are looking for work without finding it. These go into the total of employment and unemployment. And the total of both is called the nation's labor force.

Owners Died as Millionaires

$25 Worth of Furniture Has $7,800 Storage Bill

CLEVELAND (AP) — The full story, fascinating to speculate about and more than a little ironic, may never be known.

A few weeks ago an odd collection of furniture, carefully stored away in Cleveland more than 41 years ago, was finally claimed for disposition.

Over the years the cost of storing the goods, always promptly paid, ran close to $7,800.

Appraisers sadly shook their heads when the locker was opened and they surveyed its treasures. They were practically worthless.

The entire lot went to the highest bidder for $25.

The story began Oct. 31, 1918, when the furniture was placed in storage with the Andrews Moving & Storage Co.

The receipts piled up there over the years but little was known of the owners. Everybody referred to the assortment simply as "The Tanner Lot."

The owners, it was learned, both died as millionaires in California.

They were Charles (Doc) Tanner, for half a century a famous handler and reinsman of trotting horses, who used to own a share of North Randall Track, when it raced trotters, and his wife, Susie. Tanner, who died in 1935, left an estate of $1,800,000.

His widow who died last Nov. 19 at 86, left an independent estate of about $2,800,000.

They had no children.

His estate went to friends and a cousin. Hers will be divided by nearest of kin.

In addition to a couch, tables and barrels of dishes, such as normally stored when families move, the Tanners also put aside a carpet sweeper, curtain stretchers, eight rocking chairs, costumes, a shirt-waist box, four Morris chairs and a 1916 model wind-up record player.

Snow Falls In Texas, Too

Pickaway County was not the only spot in the nation to suffer from winter's late blast of snow.

Mrs. Virgil Damon, Humble, Tex., recently saw snow for the first time in the 17 years she has lived in the Texas community.

Mrs. Damon is the daughter of Mrs. C. A. Sarver who is making her home at 332 N. Scioto St.

It marked the first time Mrs. Damon's daughter, Debbie, had seen snow. According to the grandmother here, the little girl wasn't enthused with the blanket of white.

Many southern states were covered with snow during February and this month. Pickaway County had its share, too.

Small Cars Worry Tax Men

Those compact cars, both domestic and foreign, are beginning to worry state and federal tax men. They aren't causing over-size headaches yet, but there is much figurative finger-nail biting among revenue collectors.

The automobile, in these circles, is regarded primarily as a source of tax money. The stakes are high. During fiscal 1958, special taxes on car owners poured $3.6 billion into federal coffers. In 1959, the states collected more than $4.4 billion from vehicle license fees and fuel taxes.

What's worrying the tax men is the possible effects compact cars will have on fuel use, tire sales volume, dollar volume of parts and accessories, license tag fees and retail sales tax volume.

One of the heaviest potential users is the federal Highway Trust Fund, already in trouble because construction costs of the projected interstate highway net have exceeded expectations. The Bureau of Public Roads has said that for each 10 per cent of standard auto registrations replaced by compact cars, trust fund revenues may be cut by 1.5 to 2 per cent, or as much as $50 million a year.

The silver lining on the cloud, from the tax men's point of view, is that compact cars, instead of being bought as replacements, are being bought as additional cars, or in some cases as the first car. If this is the case, the effect will be to put more cars on the road, and hence generate more tax revenue.

Right now no one is sure just what the effect is going to be. But you can be sure tax men are watching the situation closely.

Boss Buttering Is an Art

NEW YORK (AP)—Boss buttering is a fine art in America. But it is amazing how few people are really expert at it.

"I don't want to be surrounded by yes men," a boss may say. "I need someone around here who can tell me when I am wrong."

But he doesn't really mean it. His wife will tell him when he is wrong. So will the chairman of the board.

What he really needs is someone who will build up his confidence by making him feel right—whether what he has done is right or wrong.

This takes a skilled "yes man," and it is surprising how few there are around.

If you're going to butter the boss at all, butter him all over.

Being a really successful yes man is no job for a shirker. It's hard work. The pay is good, but the hours are long.

Here are a dozen tested remarks found in the vocabulary of almost every successful yes man:

1. "Golf was made for you, J.B. If it weren't for that pebble in front of your tee, you'd have had a hole in one for sure."

2. "You're absolutely right, J.B. You had to take the bit in your teeth on that one."

3. "I'm not trying to flatter you, chief, but I'll bet there aren't five men in U.S. industry who could have come up with a solution like that."

4. "So what if we did drop half a million, J.B.? Even Babe Ruth never knocked them all over the fence."

5. "No, J.B., it's just your imagination. I can't see it's getting any thinner on top."

6. "Some days, J.B., it just doesn't pay to be nice to people. You gave him a $2.50 raise. What did he expect—the U.S. mint?"

7. "That last memo of yours on how the office is wasting too many paper clips was a model of executive tact, chief. It needed to be said, and no one else could have said it as well."

8. "You never looked better, J.B. You've got twice as much drive as most guys half your age."

9. "I really mean it, J.B. The world wouldn't be the same without you."

10. "I suppose you've been too busy to notice it, J.B., but morale sure has picked up since you made that little pep talk at the annual dinner of the 25-year men."

11. "Have you ever noticed, J.B., that the young fellows coming up don't have the same spark and team loyalty as the old-timers?"

12. "They'll never have to erect a monument to you, J.B. This firm will always be your monument, and you built it all by yourself."

Breathes there a boss with ego so dead he will fail to appreciate such a wonderful one-man cheering squad? No indeed.

Foreign Policy — Dick's Dilemma

By George Sokolsky

The hoopla will soon start to get out the vote. Both parties and various non-partisan and public spirited organizations will devote themselves to the doctrine that it is the duty of every citizen, male or female, to vote in each election. This preserves what they call the democracy.

There are those who hold that a good way to protest against the vacuity of our political parties is not to vote at all. It is a sort of get-even-with-them-burns attitude. When both parties nominate nonentities and give us the choice of voting for John Doe or Felix Roe, as often happens, we might as well stay home and let whoever wins win.

Some say that they're prepared to choose between the lesser of two evils. But why? Why should we not choose the better of two good men? Why, out of about 180,000,000 people, do we have to choose the lesser of two evils? There seems to be neither morality nor practicality in that.

It is quite possible that in 1960 we shall be able to make a choice between two able and experienced men. I doubt that we shall be able to make a choice between two party platforms, that is two sets of principles. The likelihood is that the platforms of both parties when translated in non-political language, will be identical.

However, the campaign might become very interesting as the Democrats gird their loins to attack the Eisenhower foreign policy which they, the Democrats, made. This may prove to be very exciting. The present foreign policy of the United States, a reversal of traditional policy, was formed by Franklin D. Roosevelt who led us in war in alliance with Great Britain and Soviet Russia.

It was a difficult policy to formulate because Roosevelt had no understanding of Russian history or Soviet methods and at both Teheran and Yalta he became confused. Harry Truman and his fourth Secretary of State, Dean Acheson, continued the Roosevelt policy but their problems increased as Russian cupidity disclosed itself and as our shifting, drifting activities in China produced tragedy both for China and for the United States.

Already Dean Acheson, in his criticisms of the Eisenhower foreign policy, is saying pretty much what his critics said about Dean Acheson when he was in authority. Perhaps out of office, Acheson has had the time and philosophy to view these problems in perspective, whereas as Secretary of State, he had to meet every contingency and emergency as an immediate and pressing problem.

Also, Dean Acheson, as every Secretary of State, had to face domestic political pressures which as an outsider no longer concern him — at least not intimately. Were he to become Secretary of State again, his views might have to be different.

The Republicans will not be able to defend themselves, except by saying to the Democrats that they did the same when they were in office. In a word, we have had a real bi-partisan foreign policy, namely that they all agreed on the same thing.

As long as John Foster Dulles was Secretary of State, he handled the foreign policy more or less on his own. The present Eisenhower policy is a departure from the Dulles attitudes; it is softer not only toward Soviet Russia but toward Red China. Dulles would not have permitted Cuba to act toward the United States as Castro and Guevara are doing.

All this will be in the campaign and Richard Nixon will have to defend the Eisenhower foreign policies which are growing increasingly unpopular because they do not seem to focus. They are such a sharp departure from the Dulles policies which prevailed for six years. The change is attributed to the influence of Dr. Milton Eisenhower who is regard-

Purpura Brings Bleeding

By Herman N. Bundesen, M.D.

Some persons bruise more easily than others. And some suffer bruises for no apparent reason at all.

This latter group suffers from purpura, a bleeding into the skin. The discolorations appear when hemorrhage occurs in the skin from the joints, the mucous membranes or, in fact any organ in the body.

Purpura sometimes occurs in infections. It does happen, although rarely, in cases of measles, smallpox and other diseases with specific fevers.

And it can also occur in certain cases of uremia, severe anemia and cirrhosis of the liver.

There are many drugs which will cause purpura in sensitive persons. Quinine, iodine and chloramphenicol are among them. Vitamin deficiencies also might be a source of the trouble.

Purpura is not necessarily an indication that the blood is not clotting correctly, although this may be the case in some instances.

In other types of purpura, at least, the trouble probably is due to increased permeability of the capillary wall. These changes in the walls are probably caused by toxemia or infection.

Serious purpura occurs both in acute and chronic forms. In the acute form, the hemorrhage may begin abruptly and be profuse. Within a few hours the patient can become dangerously anemic.

The bleeding may be from a single source or it may be from several different areas, such as the intestinal tract, uterus and nose. In most such cases, the bleeding will stop within a few weeks and the patient's health is restored.

It is not unusual, however, for hemorrhaging to occur again.

The chronic form of the disease is more common. It usually begins in childhood and generally is much milder than the acute type.

Generally, as the person gets older, the chronic form tends to disappear. Rest in bed aids in clearing the symptoms in the more mild cases.

Numerous drip transfusions with fresh blood may sometimes be necessary in the acute forms.

Question and Answer
A. A.: Is multiple sclerosis contagious or infectious?

Will you please tell me if people living in Minnesota have hook worm?

Answer: Multiple sclerosis is not generally regarded as infectious or contagious, although its actual cause is not known at present.

Hook worm would be exceedingly rare in Minnesota. It usually is a condition of warm climate where people go about barefooted.

The World Today

By James Marlow

WASHINGTON (AP) — The civil rights fight in Congress goes on and on. Sometimes it seems as confused as ever. If there is to be a quick and quiet end to it, the House apparently will have to provide it.

For a month, through Southern filibuster and miscellaneous debate, the Senate talked on civil rights like a man addressing himself in the mirror. He wasn't changing his mind but at least he had a respectful audience.

Then over the weekend Sen. Everett Dirksen of Illinois, the Republican leader, said he thought the Senate might just wait till the House passed a civil rights bill and then approve that. A couple of weeks ago, when others had a similar idea, Dirksen had advocated going ahead with the Senate's own bill.

The House, which started last week on its own civil rights bill, has worked much faster. Unlike the Senate, where debate is unlimited, the House agreed to cut speechmaking short. It expects to pass the bill this week and send it to the Senate.

But Monday Sen. Lyndon Johnson of Texas, leader of the majority Democrats, called for the Senate to get busy disposing of more than 100 proposed amendments to its own bill.

For the Senate to discuss and act on 100 or more amendments—particularly since each senator can try to tuck amendments on an amendment—should be quite a spectacle.

A handful of Southerners—18—kept the Senate in knots with their around-the-clock filibuster against the civil rights.

Finally, last week, some impatient Northern liberals tried to shut off the Southerners. But they couldn't find enough other senators to go along with them and make it stick. Instead, the Senate resumed regular sessions without the around-the-clock talking.

Then Sen. Frank J. Lausche, Ohio Democrat, proposed amending the administration's bill. One section called for making it a crime to obstruct a federal court order in school integration cases.

Lausche suggested if he made a crime to obstruct court orders in any kind of case, including labor disputes. The Southerners, who wouldn't buy what the bill proposed in school cases, were willing to go along on Lausche's broader idea.

Northern liberals, who may have thought this was the only way to avoid frustration of court orders in school cases, presented the extraordinary spectacle of going along with the Southerners.

Then labor unions screamed, because the change would make it a crime to interfere with antitrust injunctions as well as antisegregation and other orders. The Senate ended up knocking out the whole section, including the amendment it had just adopted.

This was about as dizzy a performance as the Senate has put on in a long time. But it will probably look intellectual compared with what lies ahead if the Senate ever gets tangled in all those 100 other amendments.

Striking Movie Stars Spend Extra Time Enjoying Selves

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — How do movie stars on strike spend their extra leisure time?

A spot survey shows some following typically glamorous pursuits. For others, the sudden break in film work has made possible long-awaited family reunions.

The idled performers for the most part are active—even if it is only the business of relaxation. Rock Hudson is off on a cruise at the helm of his yacht.

"You can reach me by radio when the strike is over," he told his agents.

Shirley MacLaine flew to Japan to visit her husband, Steve Parkers, who spends most of his time there producing movies.

Simone Signoret, the French actress up for an Academy Award in "Room at the Top," holds court every lunch hour in the polo lounge of the Beverly Hills Hotel, meeting Academy voters.

Elizabeth Taylor, another Oscar favorite, took off for a holiday in Jamaica with husband, Eddie Fisher. Both were appearing in "Butterfield 8" when the strike suspended production.

Peter Lawford is studying for his final citizenship test. He wants to vote next November, he hopes, for his brother-in-law—Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass.).

Of the "Let's Make Love" cast, Marilyn Monroe flew to New York; Yves Montand is helping his wife, Miss Signoret, in her Oscar campaign, while England's Frankie Vaughan is cutting records.

Shelley Winters, another Oscar nominee, took her husband back to New York with her. Anthony Franciosa was appearing in "Go Naked for the World" when the strike stopped that movie.

Bing Crosby, an expert at leisure, went to New York to do the Perry Como TV show.

Gina Lollobrigida journeyed to Toronto to take a look at her new Canadian home.

Charlton Heston is using the time to plug openings of "Ben-Hur" in Washington and Tokyo.

Small Cars Worry Tax Men

Those compact cars, both domestic and foreign, are beginning to worry state and federal tax men. They aren't causing oversized headaches yet, but there is much figurative finger-nail biting among revenue collectors.

The automobile, in these circles, is regarded primarily as a source of tax money. The stakes are high. During fiscal 1958, special taxes on car owners poured $3.6 billion into federal coffers. In 1959, the states collected more than $4.4 billion from vehicle license fees and fuel taxes.

What's worrying the tax men is the possible effects compact cars will have on fuel use, tire sales volume, dollar volume of parts and accessories, license tag fees and retail sales tax volume.

One of the heaviest potential users is the federal Highway Trust Fund, already in trouble because construction costs of the projected interstate highway net have exceeded expectations. The Bureau of Public Roads has said that for each 10 per cent of standard auto registrations replaced by compact cars, trust fund revenues may be cut by 1.5 to 2 per cent, or as much as $50 million a year.

The silver lining on the cloud, from the tax men's point of view, is that compact cars, instead of being bought as replacements, are being bought as additional cars, or in some cases as the first car. If this is the case, the effect will be to put more cars on the road, and hence generate more tax revenue.

Right now no one is sure just what the effect is going to be. But you can be sure tax men are watching the situation closely.

Boss Buttering Is an Art

NEW YORK (AP)—Boss buttering is a fine art in America. But it is amazing how few people are really expert at it.

"I don't want to be surrounded by yes men," a boss may say. "I need someone around here who can tell me when I am wrong."

But he doesn't really mean it. His wife will tell him when he is wrong. So will the chairman of the board.

What he really needs is someone who will build up his confidence by making him feel right—whether what he has done is right or wrong.

This takes a skilled "yes man," and it is surprising how few there are around.

If you're going to butter the boss at all, butter him all over. Being a really successful yes man is no job for a shirker. It's hard work. The pay is good, but the hours are long.

Here are a dozen tested remarks found in the vocabulary of almost every successful yes man:

1. "Golf was made for you, J.B. If it weren't for that pebble in front of your tee, you'd have had a hole in one for sure."

2. "You're absolutely right, J.B. You had to take the bit in your teeth on that one."

3. "I'm not trying to flatter you, chief, but I'll bet there aren't five men in U.S. industry who could have come up with a solution like that."

4. "So what if we did drop half a million, J.B.? Even Babe Ruth never knocked them all over the fence."

5. "No, J.B., it's just your imagination. I can't see it's getting any thinner on top."

6. "Some days, J.B., it just doesn't pay to be nice to people. You gave him a $2.50 raise. What did he expect—the U.S. mint?"

7. "That last memo of yours on how the office is wasting too many paper clips was a model of executive tact, chief. It needed to be said, and no one else could have said it as well."

8. "You never looked better, J.B. You've got twice as much drive as most guys half your age."

9. "I really mean it, J.B. The world wouldn't be the same without you."

10. "I suppose you've been too busy to notice it, J.B., but morale sure has picked up since you made that little pep talk at the annual dinner of the 25-year men."

11. "Have you ever noticed, J.B., that the young fellows coming up don't have the same spark and team loyalty as the old-timers?"

12. "They'll never have to erect a monument to you, J.B. This firm will always be your monument, and you built it all by yourself."

Breathes there a boss with ego so dead he will fail to appreciate such a wonderful one-man cheering squad? No indeed.

Foreign Policy — Dick's Dilemma

By George Sokolsky

The hoopla will soon start to get out the vote. Both parties and various non-partisan and public spirited organizations will devote themselves to the doctrine that it is the duty of every citizen, male or female, to vote in each election. This preserves what they call the democracy.

There are those who hold that a good way to protest against the vacuity of our political parties is not to vote at all. It is a sort of get-even-odd-thing-bums attitude. When both parties nominate nonentities and give us the choice of voting for John Doe or Felix Roe, as often happens, we might as well stay home and let whoever wins win.

Some say that they're prepared to choose between the lesser of two evils. But why? Why should we not choose the better of two good men? Why, out of about 180,000,000 people, do we have to choose the lesser of two evils? There seems to be neither morality nor practicality in that.

It is quite possible that in 1960 we shall be able to make a choice between two able and experienced men. I doubt that we shall be able to make a choice between two party platforms, that is two sets of principles. The likelihood is that the platforms of both parties when translated in non-political language, will be identical.

However, the campaign might become very interesting as the Democrats gird their loins to attack the Eisenhower foreign policy which they, the Democrats, made. This may prove to be very exciting. Richard Nixon cannot defend the do-nothing policy over Cuba or the confusions in the Pentagon. However, he also cannot attack them. Time is passing and the Vice President is stymied by his official position.

His strength lies with the conservatives; he cannot compete with John Kennedy or Hubert Humphrey for the liberal voters. Nor can he compete with Lyndon Johnson for the middle-of-the-road. It is important for Nixon to find an independent platform and to make the most of it.

Signs Mount That Adlai Is Running Again

NEW YORK (AP) — Signs mounted today that Adlai E. Stevenson intends to wage an active but soft-sell campaign for a third Democratic presidential nomination.

Stevenson, who has stood on the sidelines so far, intends to deliver a series of five or six major addresses upon his return next month from a two-month South American tour.

William Carter Attwood, on leave as foreign editor of Look magazine, said at his New Canaan, Conn., home that he has been engaged to write some speeches for Stevenson.

The speeches, the first of which will be delivered April 12 at the University of Virginia, are expected to put Stevenson's name back into the limelight.

The Wall Street Journal said that "well-heeled Eastern Democratic liberals" stand ready to finance this offbeat campaign.

Supporters of Stevenson concede the success of the campaign would be something of a long shot, dependent in part on some of the avowed candidates stumbling in the primaries.

The former Illinois governor is due to arrive in Chicago from South America April 5, the day of the Wisconsin primary.

Stevenson's speeches are expected to deal largely with foreign affairs on a generally non-partisan, high level basis. But his ideas for changes would carry an implied criticism of the Eisenhower administration policies.

The Ashville PTA annual open house meeting will be held at 7:45 p. m. Thursday in the school auditorium. A concert will be given by the concert band and the beginner's band, under the direction of William Pangburn.

After the meeting all class rooms will be opened so that the parent can visit each room and talk with each teacher. Refreshments will be served by the hospitality committee. Let's make this a large turn out as each class has put much effort into its display in each home room.

During Girl Scout Week, March 6 thru 12, thousands of Girl Scouts and their leaders attended their respective churches in uniform to reaffirm their duty to God. Girl Scouting helps them to be better members of their own religious groups and practice ethical and spiritual principals in everyday life.

Ashville Girl Scout Troop No. 638 participated in Girl Scout Sunday by furnishing altar flowers for the local evangelical United Brethren Church and special bulletins for the worship service.

The troop has a display of arts and crafts, one field of scouting, in the window of Boyd's Jewelers. The girls will also wear uniforms to school during this birthday week.

THE TROOP attended the annual birthday celebration on March 12 at Veterans Memorial Auditorium. This party is sponsored by Lazurus, and four separate programs were held on Saturday to accommodate the growing number of Scouts and Campfire Girls. The Ashville troops attended the 2:30 p. m. party.

Troop No. 638 will participate in the annual cookie sale to be held March 18 through the 28th. This is the first year for active participation on this troop, as this is the first year for Intermediate Scouting for these girls.

The troop is working as a unit on its Second Class Badge, and individual girls are working on Cook, Needlecraft and Housekeeping Badges.

10-Year Look At Progress In Ohio Asked

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Gov. Michael V. DiSalle has called for 10-year projections on Ohio's economic progress.

He asked Director Koder Colison of the Department of Industrial and Economic Development to undertake the first of such studies for the state and report before the year's end.

His request included a 10-year projection on an annual basis on the size of such programs as education, highways, welfare, mental health, public health and corrections.

Other projections would include: Appraisal of ability to meet increases in terms of the number of jobs, growth of personal income, growth in state income from existing sources.

Projected costs to the state considering size of programs.

Another project getting under way will compile annual data on such subjects as area, climate, education, parks, hospitals, welfare services, law enforcement housing, agriculture, mineral production, construction, manufacturing, transportation, communication, public utilities and banking and finance.

The director explained such data, together with figures on population, employment, income and earnings will be collected in a proposed Ohio statistical abstract. He said the abstract would be published next September.

State Board of Education Approves Local Bond Vote

The State Board of Education has put the stamp of approval on Circleville school system's proposal for a $1,475,000 school expansion bond issue.

However, five Ohio school districts failed to win approval of proposed bond issues when the State Board of Education met yesterday. It was an unprecedented move by the board.

The move Monday was seen as an effort by the board to force the districts to consolidate.

In each case, the board held that the district's student enrollment is too small and that consolidation with another district is desirable.

The five districts sought bond issues to finance additional school construction.

The board's reasoning in turning them down was two-fold: 1. Bond issues would put the districts further into debt. Such debt would make it less likely that other districts would want to consolidate with them.

2. To construct school facilities at the present locations might not be feasible if, under consolidation, a school might need to be located elsewhere.

The five districts, and the amount of the bond issues they sought to put to a popular vote: Southwest Local, Mercer County, $544,000; Old Fort Local, Seneca County, $315,000; Fort Loramie Local, Shelby County, $335,000; Southeastern Local, Clark County, $595,000; and Townsend Local, Sandusky County, $145,000.

This is the first time the board has turned down school district requests to submit bond issues to a vote. The board acted under a law passed by the last Legislature.

The law makes board consent necessary before a school district can submit to a popular vote a bond issue amounting to between 6 and 9 per cent of the district's total property valuation.

Under Ohio law, a district is forbidden to go into indebtedness by more than 9 per cent of its property valuation.

The board, however, approved proposals by 14 school districts to put bond issues up for a vote. The districts, their counties, and the amount of the bond issues:

Sheffield Lake, Lorain County, $352,000; Brunswick Local, Medina, $955,000; Clearview Local, Lorain, $250,000; Germantown Local, Montgomery, $400,000; Parma County, Cuyahoga, $3,000,000; Reynoldsburg Local, Franklin, $42,000; Circleville City, Pickaway, $1,475,500; Madison Local, Butler, $258,000; Greenville City, Darke, $1,695,000; Elm Valley Local, Delaware, $577,000; Tallmadge City, Summit, $540,000; Madison Local, Lake, $570,000; Greeneview Local, Greene, $960,000; and Dover City, Tuscarawas, $1,876,400.

The board also served notice of intent to revoke five high school charters as of June 30.

Four of the five are located in Champaign County: Christiansburg-Jackson Local, Salem Local, Urbana Local and Harrison-Adams Local (Rosewood). The fifth school, which has held a temporary charter, is Marengo in Morrow County.

In each case, the board said minimum school standards have not been met.

The school districts involved may request a hearing before the board takes final action.

Among other actions, the board: Granted charters to four high schools. One, Maplewood in Trumbull County, is in a newly consolidated district. The other three merely changed their organizational status.

Disapproved the transfer of school territory from Howland Local District to Warren City District.

Approved school construction contracts for Symmes Valley Local District, Lawrence County ($600,667), and Western Local District ($600,667), and Western Local District, Pike County ($412,001).

Declared its intention to approve transfer of three lots from Miami-Trace Local District to Washington Court House City District.

Approved payment of $6,751 by Warren City District to Warren Local District, and payment of $234 by Marion City District to Claridon Local District, as compensation for annexed territory.

Reported that almost 16 million dollars has been committed of the 20 millions the Legislature appropriated for school building aid in the 1957-59 and 1959-61 bienniums. School districts have matched that commitment with 13.7 million dollars in their own funds.

Women College Grads Told Demand for Talent Is Static

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Women college graduates five years from now will find no increase demands for their talents except in the fields of teaching, nursing and home economics, Ohio State University placement officials say.

Girls graduating from high school in 1960, planning to enter college, will find, when they graduate in four years, they have certain obstacles to overcome in finding a job, officials said.

Because women have a tendency to marry shortly after graduation, placement officials said, and because they have a stronger desire for specific job location, the demand for women college graduates will not increase sharply. The officials also said sometimes prejudice in hiring a woman also plays a part in opportunities available to them.

The placement bureau, which is responsible for setting up interviews between the graduate and company's seeking personnel, is aiding Ohio's high school students who are graduating in 1960 and plan to enter college. The bureau tries to help them in making a choice of a vocation.

This year the demand for graduates has increased in all fields with the exception of graduates majoring in geology, animal science and conservation.

In some fields more employees are looking for graduates with advanced degrees, according to placement reports from arts and sciences, education, engineering, home economics, pharmacy, agriculture, nursing and social administration. But students in many fields are not seeking advanced degrees in numbers comparable to the demand. This is true particularly in education, the officials said, where the employers are asking, but not getting, more graduates with master's and doctor's degrees.

A man's military obligation do not necessarily hinder a graduate's chances for employment, according to officials. They said some employers may require completion of military service before hiring a man, but many others hire without concern for draft status.

Officials in the fields of arts and sciences, education, engineering, commerce and administration and agriculture all believed that during the next five years demands will increase.

CLEVELAND (AP)—Mrs. Robert R. Richardson, who had a job briefly last fall taking telephone calls for her father, U.S. Sen. Stephen M. The telephone at Mrs. Richardson's home in Shaker Heights was listed in the senator's name as well as the Richardson name.

Signs Mount That Adlai Is Running Again

NEW YORK (AP) — Signs mounted today that Adlai E. Stevenson intends to wage an active but soft-soiled campaign for a third Democratic presidential nomination.

Stevenson, who has stood on the sidelines so far, intends to deliver a series of five or six major addresses upon his return next month from a two-month South American tour.

William Carter Attwood, on leave as foreign editor of Look magazine, said at his New Canaan, Conn., home that he has been engaged to write some speeches for Stevenson.

The speeches, the first of which will be delivered April 12 at the University of Virginia, are expected to put Stevenson's name back into the limelight.

The Wall Street Journal said that "well-heeled Eastern Democratic liberals" stand ready to finance this offbeat campaign.

Supporters of Stevenson concede the success of the campaign would be something of a long shot, dependent in part on some of the avowed candidates stumbling in the primaries.

The former Illinois governor is due to arrive in Chicago from South America April 5, the day of the Wisconsin primary.

Stevenson's speeches are expected to deal largely with foreign affairs on a generally non-partisan, high level basis. But his ideas for changes would carry an implied criticism of the Eisenhower administration policies.

State Board of Education Approves Local Bond Vote

The State Board of Education has put the stamp of approval on Circleville school system's proposal for a $1,475,500 school expansion bond issue.

However, five Ohio school districts failed to win approval of proposed bond issues when the State Board of Education met yesterday. It was an unprecedented move by the board.

The move Monday was seen as an effort by the board to force the districts to consolidate.

In each case, the board held that the district's student enrollment is too small and that consolidation with another district is desirable.

The five districts sought bond issues to finance additional school construction.

The board's reasoning in turning them down was two-fold:

1. Bond issues would put the districts further into debt. Such debt would make it less likely that other districts would want to consolidate with them.

2. To construct school facilities at the present locations might not be feasible if, under consolidation, a school might need to be located elsewhere.

The five districts, and the amount of the bond issues they sought to put to a popular vote:

Southwest Local, Mercer County, $544,000; Old Fort Local, Seneca County, $315,000; Fort Laramie Local, Shelby County, $335,000; Southeastern Local, Clark County, $595,000; and Townsend Local, Sandusky County, $145,000.

This is the first time the board has turned down school district requests to submit bond issues to a vote. The board acted under a law passed by the last Legislature.

The law makes board consent necessary before a school district can submit to a popular vote a bond issue amounting to between 6 and 9 per cent of the district's total property valuation.

Under Ohio law, a district is forbidden to go into indebtedness by more than 9 per cent of its property valuation.

The board, however, approved proposals by 14 school districts to put bond issues up for a vote. The districts, their counties, and the amount of the bond issues:

Sheffield Lake, Lorain County, $352,000; Brunswick Local, Medina, $955,000; Clearview Local, Lorain, $250,000; Germantown Local, Montgomery, $400,000; Parma County, Cuyahoga, $3,000,000; Reynoldsburg Local, Franklin, $42,000; Circleville City, Pickaway, $1,475,500; Madison Local, Butler, $258,000; Greenville City, Darke, $1,695,000; Elm Valley Local, Delaware, $577,000; Tallmadge City, Summit, $540,000; Madison Local, Lake, $570,000; Greenview Local, Greene, $960,000; and Dover City, Tuscarawas, $1,876,400.

The board also served notice of intent to revoke five high school charters as of June 30.

Four of the five are located in Champaign County: Christiansburg-Jackson Local, Salem Local, Urbana Local and Harrison-Adams Local (Rosedale).

The fifth school, which has held a temporary charter, is Marengo in Morrow County.

In each case, the board said minimum school standards have not been met.

The school districts involved may request a hearing before the board takes final action.

Among other actions, the board: Granted charters to four high schools. One, Maplewood in Trumbull County, is in a newly consolidated district. The other three merely changed their organizational status.

Disapproved the transfer of school territory from Howland Local District to Warren City District.

Approved school construction contracts for Symmes Valley Local District, Lawrence County ($600,667), and Western Local District ($600,667), and Western Local District, Pike County ($412,001).

Declared its intention to approve transfer of three lots from Miami-Trace Local District to Washington Court House City District.

Approved payment of $6,751 by Warren City District to Warren Local District, and payment of $234 by Marion City District to Claridon Local District, as compensation for annexed territory.

Reported that almost 16 million dollars has been committed of the 20 millions the Legislature appropriated for school building aid in the 1957-59 and 1959-61 bienniums. School districts have matched that commitment with 13.7 million dollars in their own funds.

Under Ohio law, a district is forbidden to go into indebtedness by more than 9 per cent of its property valuation.

The board, however, approved proposals by 14 school districts to put bond issues up for a vote. The districts, their counties, and the amount of the bond issues:

Sheffield Lake, Lorain County, $352,000; Brunswick Local, Medina, $955,000; Clearview Local, Lorain, $250,000; Germantown Local, Montgomery, $400,000; Parma County, Cuyahoga, $3,000,000; Reynoldsburg Local, Franklin, $42,000; Circleville City, Pickaway, $1,475,500; Madison Local, Butler, $258,000; Greenville City, Darke, $1,695,000; Elm Valley Local, Delaware, $577,000; Tallmadge City, Summit, $540,000; Madison Local, Lake, $570,000; Greenview Local, Greene, $960,000; and Dover City, Tuscarawas, $1,876,400.

The board also served notice of intent to revoke five high school charters as of June 30.

Four of the five are located in Champaign County: Christiansburg-Jackson Local, Salem Local, Urbana Local and Harrison-Adams Local (Rosedale).

The fifth school, which has held a temporary charter, is Marengo in Morrow County.

In each case, the board said minimum school standards have not been met.

The school districts involved may request a hearing before the board takes final action.

Among other actions, the board: Granted charters to four high schools. One, Maplewood in Trumbull County, is in a newly consolidated district. The other three merely changed their organizational status.

Disapproved the transfer of school territory from Howland Local District to Warren City District.

Approved school construction contracts for Symmes Valley Local District, Lawrence County ($600,667), and Western Local District ($600,667), and Western Local District, Pike County ($412,001).

Declared its intention to approve transfer of three lots from Miami-Trace Local District to Washington Court House City District.

Approved payment of $6,751 by Warren City District to Warren Local District, and payment of $234 by Marion City District to Claridon Local District, as compensation for annexed territory.

Reported that almost 16 million dollars has been committed of the 20 millions the Legislature appropriated for school building aid in the 1957-59 and 1959-61 bienniums. School districts have matched that commitment with 13.7 million dollars in their own funds.

Women College Grads Told Demand for Talent Is Static

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Women college graduates five years from now will find no increase in demand for their talents except in the fields of teaching, nursing and home economics, Ohio State University placement officials say.

Girls graduating from high school in 1960, planning to enter college, will find, when they graduate in four years, they have certain obstacles to overcome in finding a job, officials said.

Because women have a tendency to marry shortly after graduation, placement officials said, and because they have a stronger desire for specific job location, the demand for women college graduates will not increase sharply. The officials also said sometimes prejudice in hiring a woman also plays a part in opportunities available to them.

The placement bureau, which is responsible for setting up interviews between the graduate and companies seeking personnel, is aiding Ohio's high school students who are graduating in 1960 and plan to enter college. The bureau tries to help them in making a choice of a vocation.

This year the demand for graduates has increased in all fields with the exception of graduates majoring in geology, animal science and conservation.

In some fields more employees are looking for graduates with advanced degrees, according to placement reports from arts and sciences, education, engineering, home economics, pharmacy, agriculture, nursing and social administration. But students in many fields are not seeking advanced degrees in numbers comparable to the demand. This is true particularly in education, the officials said, where the employers are asking, but not getting, more graduates with master's and doctor's degrees.

Sen. Young's Daughter Quits Telephone Job

CLEVELAND (AP)—Mrs. Robert R. Richardson, who had a job briefly last fall taking telephone calls for her father, U.S. Sen. Stephen M. Young (D-Ohio), says she quit the job because she was getting annoying calls late at night. The telephone at Mrs. Richardson's home in Shaker Heights was listed in the senator's name as well as the Richardson name.

Mrs. Richardson's name appeared in the list of employees issued quarterly by the Senate, but she said she quit after only about two months. Mrs. Richardson said she did some clerical work also and was paid $112.91.

Broncos in Peak Condition For Vital Test at Troy

The Ashville Broncos roll into the Troy Class "A" Basketball Regional Friday night in peak condition.

The Broncos meet Trenton at 7:15 p. m. Friday in Troy's Hobart Arena. The second regional tilt finds undefeated Salem Local (23-0) battling former state champion Arcanum (21-2) at 8:30 p. m.

With the revitalized play of Gary Gaines last Friday against Radnor, the Broncos are set for what ever comes.

Gaines had suffered tournament shakes until Friday when he was benched. He came on as a replacement at halftime to hold sizzling Bobby James to six points in the final two periods after the 6' 11" junior and slammed in 23 markers the first half to outscore the entire Broncos squad.

HIS EIGHT points came at vital points in the third and fourth periods as Ashville won its half of the Central District crown, 60-54.

The other worry of coach Russell Gregg was the play of Dickie Hollenback, another lad who hit a relapse under tournament pressure.

Hollenback came to life against Darby in the semifinals of the Granville district with 10 valuable points in the second half to loosen up the Trojan tight middle defense and spring Bobby Hoover loose for 26 points and victory, 59-54.

Ashville's two mainstays are always ready for the toughest night. They are Hoover and Tom Rathburn. Both have been sensational in tournament competition.

When one had trouble finding the range the other tallied. The duo has impressed sports figures and fans alike and are considered among the top bankboard combinations in central Ohio.

Fifth regular on the Bronco starting five is quiet and unassuming Jimmy Gregg. Following a line of past Ashville greats, this 5' 9" junior is one of the steadiest men on the Bronco squad.

GREGG, with his excellent speed, always stands ready to split open an opponent's defense with a drive-in that stops for nothing, including six-footers and 200 pounders.

Gregg usually will roll up three and four fouls per game but rarely fouls out. Last Friday he had four charging fouls that many fans considered poor calls on the part of the referees.

The Broncos have two steady bench men who have been instrumental in taking up the slack for a teammate who's having a bad night.

Dale Fout, a 5' 11", has subbed for all three of the Ashville back court men. He is a tremendous rebounder and can score from the corner, on fast breaks and tip-ins.

Front court sub is Phil Reese, a young man who could have started for Ashville during the season. Occasionally he becomes so nervous he prefers to come in after the opening whistle.

Many times he has entered a contest when the pressure was worse than at the start, but this didn't bother the 5' 10" senior. His play against Darby in the Pickaway County League finale was responsible for Ashville's 76-72 overtime win and the title.

THESE ARE THE seven men who face an experienced Trenton Friday. The team is called the Trojans and if they are anything like another Trojan unit known as Darby, Ashville is in for trouble.

Trenton's first five has played together for three years. They know each other's abilities and handicaps. This is their last chance at making good before graduation so they will "go for broke."

The 1,000 tickets available for the game may be purchased at the school. It also was announced that the school will handle bus tickets for charter trips to Troy.

Bronco pivot man, Bobby Hoover, got a boost last night when named the Bob Bowsher Trophy winner, presented to the outstanding cager in the county.

Hoover is the 13th recipient and second in his family to receive this award. His brother, Richard L., was the winner in 1958.

Ashville will practice the balance of the week in Circleville High School's gymnasium to become accustomed to a big court.

Friend Points For 20 Victories

FORT MYERS, Fla. (AP)—Figure Bob Friend for the comeback of the year in the National League. The big right-hander who lost 19 and won only 8 last season for Pittsburgh thinks he's got a shot at becoming a 20-game winner again with the Pirates.

"Everybody feels good in the spring, but I can't remember ever feeling as good as this," said said Friend, who led the league in defeats after sharing the lead in victories with 22 the year before.

"I've got a shot at winning 20—this club is good enough for me to win that many."

The obvious difference so far about Friend is his weight. He reported about 15 or 20 pounds lighter than last spring, when he checked in at 214.

Dayton Due For Tangle With Bradley

NEW YORK (AP)—Top-seeded Bradley plays tough Dayton and defending champion St. John's takes on even tougher St. Bonaventure tonight in the last quarter-final competition of the National Invitation Tournament at Madison Square Garden.

Bradley (24-2) is a five-point favorite over the Flyers, who easily handled Temple 72-51 in a first-round game. St. Bonaventure (20-3) is given a one-point nod over the Redmen (17-7) after eliminating Holy Cross 94-81 for its 17th consecutive victory in a first-round contest.

Dayton's (21-6) chief worry appears to be Bradley's ever-changing offense and defense.

"We never do the same thing twice," Braves' coach Chuck Orsborn admitted. The Braves, who lost to St. John's, 75-71, in overtime for last year's title, are noted for using two or three types of offense or defense all with variations almost as a matter of course.

Dayton coach Tom Blackburn has high regard for the Braves. "After all, they've beaten the Big O (Oscar Robertson and Cincinnati, 91-90). In our section of the country, if you've beaten the Big O, you've got it," said Blackburn, who has led the Flyers into five NIT finals and never emerged a winner.

St. John's coach Joe Lapchick is worried mostly about its fourth-seeded team's lack of activity the past 12 days and still is haunted by the 95-78 lacing by the Bonnies in December's Holiday Festival.

Ex-Yankees May Be Stars For Athletics

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The shuttle system operating between Kansas City and New York — for use by baseball players only — may have dropped off five front-liners who'll be in the Athletics' starting lineup when Bob Elliott makes his managerial debut in the majors.

The A's, berated by many for their numerous transactions with New York, could open the 1960 campaign with Bob Cerv, Hank Bauer and Norm Siebern in the outfield, Jerry Lumpe at shortstop and Marv Throneberry at first base.

Elliott also has two starting pitchers—Johnny Kucks and Don Larsen—either of whom might wind up with the opening day mound assignment.

Kucks was the pitching star and Lumpe and Siebern the batting heroes Monday as the A's defeated the Milwaukee Braves 7-5 in an exhibition game.

Kucks pitched three scoreless innings and received credit for the victory when Lumpe and Siebern cracked homers in the third inning for a decisive 4-0 lead.

The American League champion Chicago White Sox and the Baltimore Orioles ran their records to 3-0. The Sox defeated St. Louis 8-4 while the Birds kept Cincinnati winless 9-4.

In other spring tests, Washington whipped Los Angeles 7-4, Detroit beat the Yankees 4-2 and Philadelphia took Pittsburgh 4-1.

Redleg Negro Players Fight Jim Crow in Florida Spa

TAMPA, Fla. (AP)—You're a big league ball player and you're in Florida for spring training.

In your leisure moments there are such diversions as miles of sandy, sunny beaches; world famous restaurants of distinctive national cuisines; fascinating jai alai, and tourist attractions such as Marineland and Silver Springs.

But if your name is Don Newcombe or Brooks Lawrence or Frank Robinson or Vada Pinson these are denied to you.

In fact, if you get hungry late at night you have a problem buying a hamburger or pizza. You can't even go to a movie or enjoy the company of your wife and children during the six weeks' period.

Racial segregation, the uncompromising "way of life" in the South, denies these things to you. It denies many other things, too, that are taken for granted by the average white man.

You can't even be certain a cab driver will accept you as a fare if you hail him, or you can't even take a drink of water from a fountain in the airport or bus terminal, unless there are two of them. One will be marked "Colored" the other "White."

This calls for a tremendous adjustment in thinking on the part of a man who in the six months of the baseball season sleeps and eats in such palatial hotels as the Chase in St. Louis; the Palace in San Francisco or the Warwick in Philadelphia.

What do you do about it? "Nothing," Brooks Lawrence, the veteran pitcher says quickly. "You can't fight it. You don't like it, but you can't fight it."

"You know it isn't the fault of the club. They do what they can. But a man would be out of his mind to bring a wife and children down here and expose them to this sort of treatment."

This is the reason Vada Pinson, a quiet sincere and clean youngster felt he couldn't bring his bride—whom he married only on Feb. 22—to spring drills with him.

"Once you leave that playing field," Newcombe said, "you step into a different world."

The Redleg delegation in Tampa has the friendship of Dr. A. L. Lewis, a physician, who opens his home to the boys.

Dr. Lewis has a $50,000 home in a slum neighborhood. He has a recreation room with a pool table, another with a hi-fi record collection, a well-stocked kitchen and refrigerator.

"This is where we spend our time," Robinson told a visitor who stopped by to talk to the boys on a typical night in Tampa.

"We can go to the dog races," Lawrence said, "if we sit in the special little section set aside for us. The only distinction they don't make is the color of our money."

"There are a few movie houses in Negro neighborhoods and one fairly decent restaurant," Brooks explained.

"But that isn't the only thing. When we go to Sarasota or Fort Myers to play an exhibition game, the other players dress at the hotel. We go to somebody's house and if there are five or six of us, we wait in line for the bathroom just like in a boarding house."

"The other fellows (white players) know to do what they can. You try to do some places we can't even buy a coke or candy bar."

"You know those demonstrations downtown at the lunch counters?" Lawrence asked. "They don't mean a thing. I don't want to take anything away from anybody in the white race. All I want is the freedom of choice of my way of life."

"We've always had segregation within the races. There are white people in this world you couldn't touch with a 10-foot pole and there are Negroes with whom I wouldn't think of associating."

"You want the best in life for your child and I want the best for mine. Do you think I want my child marrying yours? That would be the worst thing for both of them!"

"Being a Negro is an interesting life. Every morning of the world I wake up with a challenge staring me in the face. 'You'll never understand that."

"I'm a northern Negro, Lawrence said, and it's bad enough up there. But down here, you hear the segregationists say the Negro doesn't want to change things. That's a hypocritical lie at its worst, wishful thinking at its best. The southern Negro has to work to eat, clothe and raise his family."

"Sure, he has to tell the white people who control his life that he's happy and content with things the way they are. Don't you believe it! This situation makes a Negro a two-faced person. The face he turns to the white people is the one he thinks they want to see. His real feeling is somewhat different."

Howard Hailed In Dodger Camp

Ex-OSU Star Labeled 'Another Babe Ruth'

VERO BEACH, Fla. (AP)—There is a new phenom in the Los Angeles Dodger camp, whistling line drives through the pine trees and stirring up excited comment about a "new Babe Ruth."

Frank Howard is the name. He is the former Ohio State basketball star, a sturdy 6-foot-7 athlete who pocketed $108,000 for signing with Los Angeles in the spring of 1958. After two sensational years in the minors and a brief trial run with the Dodgers last year he is getting the long look.

The consensus among the higher brass seems to be that Howard probably needs another year of seasoning. It all depends on the exhibition games. If he still reminds people of the Babe after spring training is over, he could make the big hop this year.

"I think he can do for baseball what Babe Ruth did as far as drawing power is concerned," said Pete Reiser, new Dodger coach who managed Howard at Green Bay in 1958 and at Victoria, Tex. last year.

"He has as much power, if not more, than anybody I ever saw," said Walter Alston, the Dodger manager.

All the superlatives come from the brass. None from Howard, a polite young man of few words. Howard, 23, is so engrossed with his work that it is difficult to pin him down for even a few words.

The brass decided last year to make over Howard, from an outfielder to a first baseman.

He hit .333 at Green Bay in 1958, .356 at Victoria the first half of last season and .319 at Spokane in the Pacific Coast League the last half. In two years in the minors, split among Class B, AA and AAA leagues, he has hit 80 homers and driven in 245 runs.

Social Happenings

Monday Club Celebrates Its 70th Anniversary

The seventieth anniversary of the Monday Club was celebrated last evening in the social room of the Presbyterian Church. Decorations, program and music for the affair was based on memories of days of long ago. Forty-six members and guests enjoyed the pleasant social session.

Following an informal period around the punch bowl, dinner was served at tables arranged in U-shape, decorated with antique cut-outs and lighted with quaint old coal-oil lamps. Seated at the cross-section of the table were present and past officers of the club, Mrs. Harold Anderson, president, Mrs. Frank Morrison, Mrs. Kenneth Robbins, Mrs. James Carr, Mrs. Bishop Given, Mrs. Barton Deming, Mrs. Arthur Johnson and Mrs. Harold Defenbaugh.

A three-tiered anniversary cake, flanked by four golden goblets filled with sprays of boxwood and holding lighted green candles, centered this section of the table.

After the welcome by Mrs. Anderson, Mrs. Donald Mitchell voiced a blessing for the occasion.

Group singing of "School Days" served as an "ice-breaker" for the evening's program arranged by Mrs. James Reichelderfer and her committee, the first number being a surprise "spelling-bee" with Mrs. Robbins as teacher. Mrs. Given and Miss Alice Ada were named captains and chose participants for sides from the club group. Words were taken from an old McGuffey spelling book with Mrs. Given the victor in the spell-down and Mrs. Deming receiving a prize for learning to spell her word after spending the session in a Dunce Cap for her early failure.

Mrs. James Hodges planned the music for the evening, with the group joining in singing several of the songs mentioned in her interesting review of events and music of the late 1800's. Mrs. Hodges said that in 1884 the first "skyscraper" was built—the ten-story Home Insurance Building in Chicago. A great stride was made in printing in 1885 with the invention of the linotype by Mergenthaler. In 1888 Eastman Kodak Company marketed a roll-film camera. The following year the low-wheel bicycle made its appearance, and, by 1893, a million were in use on America's streets and lanes. During that period, two popular songs were "The Side-walks of New York" and "Bicycle Built for Two."

Although there were still serious skirmishes with the Sioux Indians, land in South Dakota was opened to white settlers in 1890. Oklahoma was opened the following fall. Settlers in wagons and on horseback lined up at the boundary line and as a gun shot signaled the opening of the territory, they raced each other to stake out claims for the best land.

In 1890 the zipper was patented and the game of basketball invented. Hawaii was proclaimed a protectorate in 1893. That same year Henry Ford's automobile passed its first road test. In the first American automobile race run two years later, the cars reached a speed of seven and one-half miles per hour!

A popular song of this period was "There'll Be a Hot Time in the Old Town Tonight". "Sweet Rosie O'Grady" began its rise to popularity in 1896. That same year Rural Free Delivery of mail was started. The following year America's first subway opened in Boston. Thirty years before, Alaska had been purchased from Russia; now, in 1897 gold was discovered and many gold-seeking Americans went to the Klondike. With the end of the Spanish-American War in August, 1898, the United States Flag was raised over Puerto Rico, Guam and the Philippines.

"Kentucky Babe" was published in 1896, the same year that Thomas Edison's invention, the vitascope, gave us the first motion pictures. Other popular songs of the era were "In the Evening by the Moonlight" and "Down by the Old Mill Stream".

Songs by Victor Herbert were becoming increasingly popular. "Gypsy Love Song" introduced in "The Fortune Teller" in 1898 became an enduring favorite.

Though one of our great American hymns, "America, the Beautiful" was not nationally known until after the World War. Katherine Lee Bates related how the words were inspired by her first visit to the summit of Pike's Peak. There, as she looked "out over the sea-like expanse of fertile country spreading away so far under those ample skies," the opening lines came to her. They were first printed in a magazine July 4, 1895, and were subsequently set to many tunes, but the most universally used is the tune "Materna" by Samuel Ward. Miss Bates further stated that the hymn has gained "such a hold... upon our people" because "Americans are at heart idealists, with a fundamental faith in human brotherhood—that faith, for which our nation stands ready to risk and suffer all."

Miss Eleanor Snyder sang three solos at intervals during Mrs. Hodges' talk, including "Long Ago", "Loves' Old Sweet Song" and "Gypsy Love Song". Mrs. Theodore L. Huston was accompanist for the evening.

Mrs. Hodges presented a piano medley, including "Turkey in the Straw", "Home on the Range", "I Want a Girl", "Clementine", "Strollin' Through the Park", "Moonlight Bay", "Aunt Dinah's Quilting Party", "Sweet and Low", the last selection being "Put On Your Old Gray Bonnet" with the group singing. Mrs. Defenbaugh led the group in various selections.

Mrs. Reichelderfer as chairman headed the social session committee comprised of Mrs. Charles H. May, Mrs. Walter Kindler, Mrs. S. M. Cryder, Mrs. Hodges, Mrs. Martin Cromley and Mrs. Ralph Hosler.

Mrs. James Moffitt and Mrs. Ione Reichelderfer arranged the tasteful decorations for the affair.

De you know the ABC of good grooming? It's Always Bathe Carefully—a wise motto whether you're nine or ninety!

Dear Abby...

By Abigail VanBuren

Leave Her to the Bus Driver

DEAR ABBY: Please tell me if you think my mother-in-law is "all there". She lost her husband about a year ago. The first six months she spent crying to every one who'd listen to her. (I know it is sad to be left a widow, but she did have 38 happy married years, and her husband left her in good financial shape.)

Lately she has spent almost every day riding around on a certain bus. She sits behind the bus driver and talks to him. She says this is her only pleasure. I have seen this bus driver and he acts very annoyed with her.

Do you think it's right of my mother-in-law to force her company on a poor defenseless bus driver? Or shouldn't somebody tell her to leave him alone?

DAUGHTER-IN-LAW
DEAR DAUGHTER-IN-LAW: It seems to me that there are rules about passengers needlessly talking to bus drivers. (Their duties require their undivided attention.) Stay out of it. Maybe the bus driver will tell her where to get off.

DEAR ABBY: Have you a solution for neighbors who use your phone more than you do? They have a habit of walking right in. We can't lock our door because of the kiddies running in and out. It starts early in the morning and we have had them coming in as late as midnight to use the phone. We can't even use our own phone in private because they will come in and stand in the same room with you until you hang up.

TELEPHONE OWNERS
DEAR OWNERS: Some people have to be told bluntly that they are abusing a privilege. Tell these clods that you have a one-party line—and you're the party!

DEAR ABBY: My husband caught me in a lie once. (Nothing serious. I told him I was going to a movie with my mother, but instead I went to a bar with an old flame. Nothing happened.) Anyway, ever since then he has been checking up on me. It is very embarrassing. He calls my mother and sisters and wants to know where I am every minute I am away from home. That lie he caught me in happened two years ago, but he can't seem to forget it.

How can I prove to him once and for all that I can be trusted?

NOT TRUSTED
DEAR NOT: It won't be easy. Trust is built on actions, not words. Behave as a woman and not a moth and one day your husband will realize that checking up on you is a waste of time. Then he'll quit.

"What's your problem?" For a personal reply, write to Abby in care of this paper and enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Remember, if you are using paper bags for storing winter clothing during the summer months, the bags must be kept tightly sealed and moth preventatives used. Bags should also be wide enough and long enough so that garments won't be crushed together.

Broncos in Peak Condition For Vital Test at Troy

The Ashville Broncos roll into the Troy Class "A" Basketball Regional Friday night in peak condition.

The Broncos meet Trenton at 7:15 p. m. Friday in Troy's Hobart Arena. The second regional tilt finds undefeated Salem Local (23-0) battling former state champion Arcanum (21-2) at 8:30 p. m.

With the revitalized play of Gary Gaines last Friday against Radnor, the Broncos are set for what ever comes.

Gaines had suffered tournament shakes until Friday when he was benched. He came on as a replacement at halftime to hold replacing Bobby James to six points in the final two periods after the 6' 11" junior and slammed in 23 markers the first half to outscore the entire Broncos squad.

His eight points came at vital points in the third and fourth periods as Ashville won its half of the Central District crown, 60-54.

The other worry of coach Russell Gregg was the play of Dickie Hollenback, another lad who hit a release under tournament pressure.

Hollenback came to life against Darby in the semifinals of the Granville district with 10 valuable points in the second half to loosen up the Trojan tight middle defense and spring Bobby Hoover loose for 26 points and victory, 59-54.

Ashville's two mainstays are always ready for the toughest night. They are Hoover and Tom Rathburn. Both have been sensational in tournament competition.

When one had trouble finding the range the other tallied. The duo has impressed sports figures and fans alike and are considered among the top bankboard combinations in central Ohio.

Fifth regular on the Bronco starting five is quiet and unassuming Jimmy Gregg. Following a line of past Ashville greats, this 5' 9" junior is one of the steadiest men on the Bronco squad.

Gregg, with his excellent speed, always stands ready to split open an opponent's defense with a drive-in that stops for nothing, including six-footers and 200 pounders.

Gregg usually will roll up three and four fouls per game but rarely fouls out. Last Friday he had four charging fouls that many fans considered poor calls on the part of the referees.

The Broncos have two steady bench men who have been instrumental in taking up the slack for a teammate who's having a bad night.

Dale Fout, a 5' 11", has subbed for all three of the Ashville back court men. He is a tremendous rebounder and can score from the corner, on fast breaks and tip-ins.

Front court sub is Phil Reese, a young man who could have started for Ashville during the season. Occasionally he becomes so nervous he prefers to come in after the opening whistle.

Many times he has entered a contest when the pressure was worse than at the start, but this didn't bother the 5' 10" senior. His play against Darby in the Pickaway County League finale was responsible for Ashville's 76-72 overtime win and the title.

NCAA Opponents Evaluate Ohio Tournament Teams

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Rene Herrerias, California's present assistant basketball coach and the head coach-to-be, figures Friday's NCAA semifinal against Cincinnati at just about a standoff.

"We're tougher than we were a year ago," Herrerias declared after scouting Cincinnati in the Midwest regionals, "but Cincinnati is definitely stronger."

The little coach, who moves up to the head job when Pete Newell takes over the Cal athletic directorship, said California, defending NCAA champion, won't have the advantage of surprise as they did last year.

The Bears went into the tournament at Louisville unheralded, stopped Oscar Robertson and Cincinnati 64-58, then beat West Virginia 71-70 for the title.

Friday the two teams meet in the Cow Palace after Ohio State meets New York University.

"The big difference," he said, "is Cincinnati's 6-9 sophomore center Paul Hogue. I'm told he was somewhat uncoordinated at the start of the season, but he certainly didn't look it last week."

"He takes a lot of pressure off Robertson. When the defense collapses on Oscar, the Big O passes off to Hogue and he dunks one. Hogue gives Cincinnati the good big man they lacked last year."

Herrerias added that Cincinnati doesn't make many mistakes, that the club is better than last year's defensively and on rebounding.

He expects his Bears to slow up Robertson & Co. (Cal leads the nation in defense), but he quickly noted that the Ohioans can and have mastered the Bear ball control style.

"They can come through," Herrerias said. "Look at their record."

It's 27-1, same as California's. Ohio State and NYU likewise match identical records—23-3.

And in New York, the Violets' coach had something to say about his next foe too. Lou Rossini commented that OSU's team is big and tough and will wear an opponent to a frazzle physically. But, said Rossini, the Buckeyes have an Achilles heel—impetuosity.

"They're a young bunch and they don't have much patience," the NYU mentor elaborated. "Our only chance of beating them is that they will get fidgety and reckless and make some damaging mistakes."

Aside from that, Rossini was all praise. He said that the scout he dispatched to Louisville to watch the Bucks against Georgia Tech "thought it the best team he had seen all year."

"They're all big strong boys—6-5 and 6-6—who probably have the best over-all team speed in the country," Rossini went on.

"They're an unselfish team—they look around for each other—but they concentrate on Jerry Lucas, their terrific 6-foot-8 All-American. One of their pet plays is to send a high, lobbing pass down to Lucas, who leaps out of a horde of defenders to grab the ball and then stuffs it two-handed into the basket."

"It's not a one-man team. If you concentrate your defense on Lucas, one of the other guys will murder you."

"We won't change our tactics and we have one hope of beating them—that is, we must do everything just right and we must pounce on their mistakes. They are eager, and inclined to get flustered."

Jets Tickets Now on Sale

The Columbus Jets' sixth annual Book Ticket Drive opened yesterday.

This advance sale of general admission tickets, which provides the club with half of its pre-season income, concludes Monday, April 11.

The book tickets are good for admission to any regularly scheduled International League game during the season.

Numerous individuals and business concerns in Columbus and Franklin County will handle the sale of the books. They also may be purchased at the Jet Stadium office, which will be open from 9 to 5 daily until the season opens against Montreal, April 20. Persons seeking additional information may call the stadium office (CA 4-1175).

The annual Book Ticket Drive is the major medium through which individuals in the Central Ohio area are able to insure the continued financial stability of the community-owned Jets and the Columbus Youth Foundation.

Brown, Eveland Grab 1st Place

Tom Eveland and Mike Brown combined to roll into first place in doubles competition in the Lancaster City Bowling Tournament Sunday.

The local keggers blasted the Lancaster lanes for 1,273 pins with hand ease.

Eveland had a 649 and 226 high game. Brown was close behind with 603 and 234 high game.

Both bowlers also rolled high in singles competition. The tourney will continue this weekend.

Ron Delany won four straight Wanamaker Mile races at the Millrose Games.

Dayton Due For Tangle With Bradley

NEW YORK (AP) — Top-seeded Bradley plays tough Dayton and defending champion St. John's takes on even tougher St. Bonaventure tonight in the last quarter-final competition of the National Invitation Tournament at Madison Square Garden.

Bradley (24-2) is a five-point favorite over the Flyers, who easily handled Temple 72-51 in a first-round game. St. Bonaventure (20-3) is given a one-point nod over the Redmen (17-7) after eliminating Holy Cross 94-81 for its 17th consecutive victory in a first-round contest.

Dayton's (21-6) chief worry appears to be Bradley's ever-changing offense and defense.

"We never do the same thing twice," Braves' coach Chuck Orsborn admitted. The Braves, who lost to St. John's, 75-71, in overtime for last year's title, are noted for using two or three types of offense or defense all with variations almost as a matter of course.

Dayton coach Tom Blackburn has high regard for the Braves.

"After all, they've beaten the Big O (Oscar Robertson and Cincinnati, 91-90). In our section of the country, if you've beaten the Big O, you've got it," said Blackburn, who has led the Flyers into five NIT finals and never emerged a winner.

St. John's coach Joe Lapchick is worried mostly about its fourth-seeded team's lack of activity the past 12 days and still is haunted by the 95-78 lacing by the Bonnies in December's Holiday Festival.

Ex-Yankees May Be Stars For Athletics

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The shuttle system operating between Kansas City and New York — for use by baseball players only — may have dropped off five front-liners who'll be in the Athletics' starting lineup when Bob Elliott makes his managerial debut in the majors.

The A's, berated by many for their numerous transactions with New York, could open the 1960 campaign with Bob Cerv, Hank Bauer and Norm Siebern in the outfield, Jerry Lumpe at shortstop and Marv Throneberry at first base.

Elliott also has two starting pitchers—Johnny Kucks and Don Larsen—either of whom might wind up with the opening day mound assignment.

Kucks was the pitching star and Lumpe and Siebern the batting heroes Monday as the A's defeated the Milwaukee Braves 7-5 in an exhibition game.

Kucks pitched three scoreless innings and received credit for the victory when Lumpe and Siebern cracked homers in the third inning for a decisive 4-0 lead.

The American League champion Chicago White Sox and the Baltimore Orioles ran their records to 3-0. The Sox defeated St. Louis 8-4 while the Birds kept Cincinnati winless 9-4.

In other spring tests, Washington whipped Los Angeles 7-4, Detroit beat the Yankees 4-2 and Philadelphia took Pittsburgh 4-1.

Friend Points For 20 Victories

FORT MYERS, Fla. (AP)—Figure Bob Friend for the comeback of the year in the National League. The big right-hander who lost 19 and won only 8 last season for Pittsburgh thinks he's got a shot at becoming a 20-game winner again with the Pirates.

"Everybody feels good in the spring, but I can't remember ever feeling as good as this," said Friend, who led the league in defeats after sharing the lead in victories with 22 the year before.

"I've got a shot at winning 20—this club is good enough for me to win that many."

The obvious difference so far about Friend is his weight. He reported about 15 or 20 pounds lighter than last spring, when he checked in at 214.

Redleg Negro Players Fight Jim Crow in Florida Spa

TAMPA, Fla. (AP)—You're a big league ball player and you're in Florida for spring training.

In your leisure moments there are such diversions as miles of sandy, sunny beaches; world famous restaurants of distinctive national cuisines; fascinating jai alai, and tourist attractions such as Marineland and Silver Springs.

But if your name is Don Newcombe or Brooks Lawrence or Frank Robinson or Vada Pinson these are denied to you.

In fact, if you get hungry late at night you have a problem buying a hamburger or pizza. You can't even go to a movie or enjoy the company of your wife and children during the six weeks' period.

Racial segregation, the unpromising "way of life" in the South, denies these things to you.

It denies many other things, too, that are taken for granted by the average white man.

You can't even be certain a cab driver will accept you as a fare if you hail him, or you can't even take a drink of water from a fountain in the airport or bus terminal, unless there are two of them. One will be marked "Colored" the other "White."

This calls for a tremendous adjustment in thinking on the part of a man who in the six months of the baseball season sleeps and eats in such palatial hotels as the Chase in St. Louis; the Palace in San Francisco or the Warwick in Philadelphia.

What do you do about it?

"Nothing," Brooks Lawrence, the veteran pitcher says quickly. "You can't fight it. You don't like it, but you can't fight it."

"You know it isn't the fault of the club. They do what they can. But a man would be out of his mind to bring a wife and children down here and expose them to this sort of treatment."

This is the reason Vada Pinson, a quiet sincere and clean youngster felt he couldn't bring his bride—whom he married only on Feb. 22—to spring drills with him.

"Once you leave that playing field," Newcombe said, "you step into a different world."

The Redleg delegation in Tampa has the friendship of Dr. A. L. Lewis, a physician, who opens his home to the boys.

Dr. Lewis has a $50,000 home in a slum neighborhood. He has a recreation room with a pool table, another with a hi-fi record collection, a well-stocked kitchen and refrigerator.

"This is where we spend our time," Robinson told a visitor who stopped by to talk to the boys on a typical night in Tampa.

"We can go to the dog races," Lawrence said. "If we sit in the special little section set aside for us. The only distinction they don't make is the color of our money."

"There are a few movie houses in Negro neighborhoods," and one fairly decent restaurant," Brooks explained.

"But that isn't the only thing. When we go to Sarasota or Fort Myers to play an exhibition game, the other players dress at the hotel. We go to somebody's house and if there are five or six of us, we wait in line for the bathroom just like in a boarding house."

"The other fellows (white players) try to do what they can. Do you know there are some places we can't even buy a coke or candy bar?"

"You know those demonstrations downtown at the lunch counters?" Lawrence asked. "They don't mean a thing. I don't want to take anything away from anybody in the white race. All I want is the freedom of choice of my way of life."

"We've always had segregation within the races. There are white people in this world you couldn't touch with a 10-foot pole and there are Negroes with whom I wouldn't think of associating."

"You want the best in life for your child and I want the best for mine. Do you think I want my child marrying yours? That would be the worst thing for both of them."

"Being a Negro is an interesting life. Every morning of the world I wake up with a challenge staring me in the face. 'You'd never understand that.'"

"I'm a northern Negro. Lawrence said, and it's bad enough up there. But down here, you hear the segregationists say the Negro doesn't want to change things. That's a hypocritical lie at its worst, wishful thinking at its best. The southern Negro has to work to eat, clothe and raise his family."

"Sure, he has to tell the white people who control his life that he's happy and content with things the way they are. Don't you believe it! This situation makes a Negro a two-faced person. The face he turns to the white people is the one he thinks they want to see. His real feeling is somewhat different."

Howard Hailed In Dodger Camp

Ex-OSU Star Labeled 'Another Babe Ruth'

VERO BEACH, Fla. (AP) — There is a new phenom in the Los Angeles Dodger camp, whistling line drives through the pine trees and stirring up excited comment about a "new Babe Ruth."

Frank Howard is the name. He is the former Ohio State basketball star, a sturdy 6-foot-7 athlete who pocketed $108,000 for signing with Los Angeles in the spring of 1958. After two sensational years in the minors and a brief trial run with the Dodgers last year he is getting the long look.

The consensus among the higher brass seems to be that Howard probably needs another year of seasoning. It all depends on the exhibition games. If he still reminds people of the Babe after spring training is over, he could make the big hop this year.

"I think he can do for baseball what Babe Ruth did as far as drawing power is concerned," said Pete Reiser, new Dodger coach who managed Howard at Green Bay in 1958 and at Victoria, Tex. last year.

"He has as much power, if not more, than anybody I ever saw," said Walter Alston, the Dodger manager.

All the superlatives come from the brass. None from Howard, a polite young man of few words. Howard, 23, is so engrossed with his work that it is difficult to pin him down for even a few words.

The brass decided last year to make over Howard from an outfielder to a first baseman.

He hit .333 at Green Bay in 1958, .356 at Victoria the first half of last season and .319 at Spokane in the Pacific Coast League the last half. In two years in the minors, split among Class B, AA and AAA leagues, he has hit 80 homers and driven in 245 runs.

pro for four years. In all he has 10 years experience as a professional.

Bob's well-rounded experience in the pro field includes six years as professional at the Fair Greens Country Club at Jackson, O.

He also picked up valuable working knowledge while serving as associate pro to Clyde Usina at the West Palm Beach Country Club in Florida.

Bisciotti hails from Columbus, graduating from Our Lady of Victory High School in 1945. He also attended Grandview High School where he was a member of the golf and basketball teams. One of his opponents in high school golf was Bob Moon, a present member of PCC and a former links ace for CHS.

Bob and his wife, Martha Jane, have one son, Robert Clyde, 5. Mrs. Bisciotti is a native of Weldon. The new pro and his wife currently are looking for a home in Circleville with intentions of moving here as soon as possible.

Bisciotti's duty as a pro superintendent here started several days ago. He will be at the local course every day and already has started planning for the coming season.

The veteran pro said he is looking forward to starting here and becoming acquainted with country club members and local golf enthusiasts.

He said he hopes to start a junior golf program and conduct scheduled lessons for members.

Bob said he loves golf and is devoted to the game. One of his better showings came a couple of years ago when he reached the playoffs in the National PGA Tournament at Columbus.

Betsy Rauls averaged 74.03 strokes per round for 95 rounds of tournament golf in 1959.

Woolums Voted Top AA Coach

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—John Woolums of Dayton Roosevelt to day was named Ohio's Class AA high school basketball coach of the year in the Associated Press poll of sports writers, officials and cage mentors.

The tutor of the top-ranked, unbeaten Teddies has been coaching for 18 of his 38 years, compiling a 257-89 record.

In 13 years at the Roosevelt helm his 198-72 record has brought him two district and six city championships — the last four in a row. His record stands at 23 straight and has been top ranked all year in the Associated Press poll.

In the state-wide voting, with hundreds participating, Woolums was a standout winner. Ken Kate of unbeaten Canton Timken was second, and Bill Ross of Marietta third.

Next in line were John Cabas of Salem, Bill Kaylor of Xenia Central, Bill Satterlee of Akron South, Sam Marchio of Urbana, George Valentine of Ashland, Doyce Filiere of Pemberville Eastwood, Joe Howell of Cleveland East Tech, Ed DiGregorio of Youngstown East, Bill Arthur of Archbold, and Russell Moore of Pomeroy.

Woolums, who sends his terrific Teddies against Middletown's seven-time state champions Friday in the Cincinnati regional, coached the New Vienna team while a senior at Wilmington College.

He spent two years at Martinsville and two at Lemon-Monroe before going to Dayton. After graduating from Wilmington in 1943, Woolums received his masters degree in education and school administration from Miami in 1952. In between he sandwiched a World War II stint with the Marine Corps. He's a graduate of Belfast, Ohio, High School.

The ratings were based on regular season games, as are the

How Weather Looks Today

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Official Weather Bureau summary of Ohio's weather outlook:

Most of Ohio was cloudy Monday and afternoon temperatures continued well below normal.

Cleveland reported a high of 28, Columbus 32, Marietta 35.

Skies were clear this morning except along the Ohio River, and temperatures ranged from only 6 above at Youngstown to 15 at Columbus, and 24 at Chesapeake and Cincinnati.

A low pressure over Texas will move slowly eastward Wednesday but the resulting heavy snows will again be held south of the Ohio River by high pressure over the Great Lakes. Some light snow or flurries may occur over the southern counties.

Continued cold weather is expected.

McMillan's Bat Booms For Redlegs

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Roy McMillan, the skinny Cincinnati shortstop, has a new talent for hitting.

The Reds tried him as leadoff man Monday in an exhibition against Baltimore's American League. He lashed out a triple, double and single and scored three runs.

"It's a matter of getting more snap into my wrists," he said. "Wally Moses suggested it and I want to tell you it's the first time I received a workable batting tip."

The Orioles, getting 15 its off hurlers Ted Wietand, Jim Brosnan and Mike Cuellar and benefiting from five Red throw errors, won 9-4.

But McMillan's batting spree perked up as his teammates. There has been some question as to whether he's physically fit again.

A second base collision with Billy Bruton of Milwaukee last August cracked McMillan's clavicle, ending his playing for the season.

It cast a shadow on the length of his playing days. Mac wasn't the only one worried when it failed to heal properly and an operation was performed.

"The days I had to wait to test it thoroughly were killing," he said. "The club wouldn't even let me swing a bat or exercise the shoulder until Jan. 15."

"Then I swung a bat, felt no pain, hitch or anything unusual. Then I played three rounds of golf. It felt fine."

Spring training is the big test. Mac said "I didn't have any real fears about it when I shagged grounders. I saw the ball and even took my turn in the batting cage."

"But it certainly was more encouraging to find that I can do everything I did in the past."

All-Ohio player selections to be announced next week. The All-Ohio teams, at the request of the Ohio High School Basketball Coaches Assn., are made public the week of the state championship tournament.

Others mentioned prominently for the coach of the year award in Class AA were Bobby Carroll of Bridgeport, Dale Reichenbach of Ellyria, the 1959 choice; Eugene Degyansky of Lakewood, Andy Kandik of Toledo Scott, Jim Clark of Cincinnati Central, Bucky Walters of Springfield, Harold Andrews of Cuyahoga Falls, and George Heller of Portsmouth.

Scioto Patrol Aide Lauded For Courage

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A Scioto County member of the Ohio Highway Patrol auxiliary has been cited for his alertness and courage in helping to subdue a man who was attacking a Portsmouth policeman.

Harold Green, 39, of Wheelersburg, a 10-year veteran of the auxiliary, was presented the group's highest award Sunday for going to the aid of policeman Howard Thompson the night of Sept. 5.

Green received the award at the auxiliary's 15th state conference here.

Officer Thompson had stopped a weaving car on U.S. 52 between New Boston and Sciotoville. While getting the woman driver's license he was struck from behind by her male companion.

The man then tried to take Thompson's revolver, but the officer shot him in the shoulder. The wounded man struck Thompson again, knocked him to the ground, then proceeded to kick him in the head and ribs.

At this point, Green pulled up in his car and helped subdue the assailant, saving Thompson from further injury.

The auxiliary was founded in 1942. It is composed of 5,000 selected members of the American Legion who put in 220,000 duty hours last year.

Venezuelan Stops Feather Champion

CARACAS, Venezuela. (AP) — A little known Venezuelan fighter broke world featherweight champion Davey Moore's jaw and forced the Springfield, Ohio, scrapper to leave the ring in the seventh round of a scheduled 10-round non-title bout Monday night.

Young Carlos Hernandez rocked Moore with a hard right in the third round and sent him down for a six count. Moore clinched and waited for the bell.

It appeared it was the third round blow that fractured Moore's jaw. After the fight, his jaw was placed in a cast.

Moore weighed 127, Hernandez, 130.

Views on Television-Radio

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — There's nothing like an old-fashioned cold in the head—running eyes, drippy nose and accompanying bad disposition — to reveal what has been happening to radio while we've had our attention fixed on television.

Television proved no panacea for this recently rheumy-eyed sufferer, but neither, it must be confessed, was good old daytime radio. It takes more than a couple of days for a stranger to get caught up in the adventures of "Helen Trent." Top news just doesn't break fast enough to add much variety to those half-hour news roundup programs. Music, even when it isn't rock and roll, begins to cloy when it isn't an accompaniment to something else the listener is doing.

The more entertaining part of the day for a restless invalid unable to read, started with Sam Levenson on CBS shortly after 9 a.m. I found that I stuck with that network straight through to 2 p.m. when it concluded its block of daytime serials.

Actually, however, there is so little except music on radio these days it's hardly any fun at all any more to stay home with a cold in the head.

CBS plans to repeat, for nighttime audiences, the hour-long "Salute to the American Theater" originally shown early on a December Sunday afternoon. The repeat will be Friday, April 8, 9-10 p.m., and is well worth attention by those who missed it first time out.

You can be sure we will get the full treatment on the Windsor-Jones nuptials. NBC already has plans for two special programs. One will cover the background of the romance between Princess Margaret and photographer Antony Armstrong-Jones. The second will be coverage of the May 6 wedding itself.

CBS' Circle Theatre will reconstruct the adventures of Miami Herald reporter James Buchanan, arrested recently in Cuba in its March 30 show.

Recommended tonight: "Academy Songs," NBC, 8:30-9:30 — Jane Wyman pre-laps over a song fest built around Oscar-winning tunes of the past, with Charles Laughton, Kay Starr, Nat King Cole and others; Arthur Murray Party for Bob Hope, NBC, 9:30-10 — first of a two-part series "roasting" the comedian.

Crocker Grabs Tourney Laurels

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — Fay Crocker may be 45 and have thin blood, but the South American senorita has plenty of staying power on the golf course.

She proved that in the 21st Women's Titleholders when she jumped out front the first day, led all the way and won by seven shots over Kathy Cornelius of Lakeland, Fla.

Miss Crocker took top money of $1,200 Monday with a 303. Mrs. Cornelius had 310, good for a $900 check.

Par for the 6,300-yard Augusta Country Club course is 36-36-72. Never easy, the hilly layout was tougher than usual this year, after late winter snow and ice storms left the course in less than perfect shape.

SOMETHING TO TALK ABOUT AT GENEVA — Despite 15 years of troop cuts (illustrated) that have slashed millions from their armed forces since World War II, Russia and the West are arming at a terrific speed as the West and East seek a disarmament plan in Geneva. The arms race today is in nuclear rockets. Facing each other across the Geneva conference table are NATO United States, Britain, France, Canada and Italy, and Russia and her satellites, Poland, Czechoslovakia, Romania and Bulgaria. Russia wants total disarmament within four years. The West reportedly wants a gradual stepdown ending with complete disarmament under strict controls.

Can Woman Keep a Secret? 136,000 To Take Census

By DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Women's Editor
Can a woman keep a secret? The United States government will soon find out, as some 136,000 women start out April 1 in every city, town and crossroads to compile highly personal information about their neighbors, for the 1960 census.

This year Uncle Sam is depending largely on housewives to count the noses of Americans for him, since not many men are available for the job. The Bureau of the Census in Washington estimates that 85 per cent of the 160,000 takers of the 1960 census will be women, compared with 65 per cent in 1950. The reason: higher employment and higher wages. A two-week job at an average of $13 a day doesn't have as many takers as it did 10 years ago.

Census takers will work largely in their own neighborhoods, for purposes of convenience and efficiency.

Questionnaires will be mailed to all residents of the United States late in March, and a few days later census takers will call to pick up the answers, and check them.

This is the rub. The new census questions go into details which Mrs. Jones may not want her neighbors to know — questions about age, income, number of marriages and so on. One in four homes will receive detailed questionnaires containing 45 questions designed to give the government a living portrait of every American—how many days off you or your husband had last year, how you or he travels to work, how many bedrooms in your home, and so on. These detailed questionnaires are mailed direct to the regional census office, in a postage-paid envelope enclosed.

But the regular census form, containing 11 questions, is picked up by the census taker, who checks the answers. Since the census taker probably is a neighbor, some people may feel a few qualms about revealing all their vital and financial statistics.

The Census Bureau assures the public that all records are confidential, and that the enumerators are sworn to secrecy, with stiff penalties for divulging the contents of any questionnaire. Not even the President or the FBI can look at these census records, they say.

Phone Sermon Plan Expands; Use Is Heavy

Phone calls to the Circleville Lutheran Church's new "Dial-A-Devotion" service here exceeded expectations last weekend. As a result the church has decided to double the service's capacity.

The Rev. Carl G. Zehner, pastor, said today he has ordered a second telephone line and another electronic secretary to air his one-minute sermonettes.

Immediately after the installation last Friday, the new system was swamped with calls. From 4:45 p. m. Friday to 9:30 a. m. Sunday, some 1,997 calls were connected.

And, the pastor said, from 8 a. m. Monday to 8:30 a. m. Tuesday another 856 calls were recorded.

Donald Christianson, General Telephone Co.'s local representative, said the second electronic secretary would be installed today.

THE ADDITIONAL equipment, he said, will let two calls to be made simultaneously to the service, instead of one.

Christianson said that during the weekend about one of every six to 10 calls was connected to the sermonette — the others received busy signals — owing to the large volume of calls.

Pastor Zehner said, "The response of the people of Circleville has so passed our expectations that we are adding another unit to take care of the hundreds of calls. We feel that to get the busy signal time after time would tend to discourage people from trying to call back and they would thus lose interest in the program itself."

Dialing of the number GR 4-2123 connects the caller to the one-minute sermonette. Pastor Zehner records a new talk every day.

It had been predicted that an estimated 500 calls would be made to the sermonette every 24-hour period. That was based on the public's response to other similar installations in Ohio communities.

Logan Elm School Bid Deadline Set

4,327,783 Vehicles Registered in Ohio

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Motor vehicle registrations for the year ending Feb. 29 hit a record high of 4,327,783, State Auditor James A. Rhodes reported today.

License revenues for the period totaled nearly 74½ million dollars. Rhodes said the figures are exclusive of early sales of 1960 license plates. Registrations last year totaled 4,102,551 and fees a little more than 71 million dollars.

Negro Sitdown Shows Waning

Mass Convictions Chill Demonstrators

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Negro sitdown demonstrations appeared to be diminishing in the South today in the face of mass convictions and firm police action but new racial violence was reported in two cities.

Negro students at Florida A.&M. University called off their sit-downs protesting segregated eating facilities at Tallahassee. Montgomery, Ala., was quiet. There was one small demonstration in South Carolina.

Courts in Virginia, North Carolina and South Carolina handed down a series of convictions Monday in connection with sitdown troubles. Both Negroes and white persons were involved.

At Charleston, S. C., Grady McMakin, 24, a white service station attendant, told police six Negro youths carved crude "KKK" initials in his back, beat him up and robbed him of $40.

In New Orleans, Michael Tortorich, 17, told police a Negro teenager stabbed him in the back Sunday night as he waited for a bus. Tortorich's condition was described as fair.

The decision to halt demonstrations at Tallahassee was announced by Ira C. Robinson, president of the Student Government Assn. at Florida A.&M. University. He said agreement was reached after Saturday's near riot in downtown Tallahassee and the turning back of a Negro march by tear gas.

At Petersburg, Va., hundreds of Negroes sang hymns outside the courthouse while 11 members of their race were convicted of trespassing at the city's public library March 7. All were released on bond.

Two Negro college students were convicted of trespassing in Raleigh, N.C. They were among 43 students arrested during February demonstrations.

EASTER SEAL CHILD — Pictured above is Kenneth Allen Rhodes, age 3, of 466 Dearborn St., who recently was named the 1960 Easter Seal Child by the Pickaway County Society for Crippled Children and Adults.

Easter Seal Fund Campaign To Open Here on Thursday

The Pickaway County Society for Crippled Children and Adults Easter Seal Drive starts Thursday, according to drive chairman, Robert Seward.

Kenneth Allen Rhodes, 3, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth L. Rhodes, 466 Dearborn St., was named Easter Seal Child for 1960. He has a defective bone formation of the legs and feet.

His ailment was discovered at a Berger Hospital Well Baby Clinic when he was 18-months-old. His case was called to the attention of the Crippled Children's Society.

The Society found that his parents had no means of supporting the necessary treatment for the defect because they had two other children.

YOUNG KENNETH'S legs are being corrected by the use of "Fildr" splints and corrective shoes provided by the Society.

"He is just one of the many children receiving assistance from the local Crippled Children's Society," a Society official said today.

The Society asks all residents receiving Easter Seals to send in contributions which will aid the many persons under the Society's care.

Perry Mason's TV Enemy Arrested at Nude Gathering

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Singer Lola DeWitt says it was just a "compatible group having a sociable gathering" the night police raided a Hollywood party and arrested her, TV actor William Talman, and six others.

Officers said the merry-makers had no clothes on.

Miss DeWitt, 31, pleaded innocent Monday to a morals charge. Talman—the district attorney on the Perry Mason TV series—will enter his plea Thursday, along with the other defendants.

All are charged with lewd vagrancy. In addition, the party's host, Richard Riebold, 31, faces a narcotics charge. Detectives said all were frolicking naked when the raid occurred. They said marijuana cigarettes were found in Riebold's apartment.

Newsman asked Miss DeWitt if, as charged, everyone was stripped. Replied Miss DeWitt:

"We were comfortable."

She added: "We were a compatible group, very friendly, having a sociable gathering. In our business people have to relax, you know."

Talman, 45, has played the hard-luck district attorney in the Mason series for three years.

Gail Patrick Jackson, executive producer of the series, said she couldn't say what will happen to Talman's job until after she talks to him—and his case is decided in court.

"After all," she said, "in our society a person is presumed innocent until proven guilty."

John W. Loucks, deputy district attorney, said all eight originally were booked on suspicion of possession of marijuana. But he said no attempt was made to prosecute them on that charge because evidence indicated the marijuana was all property of the host.

"There was nothing to indicate that any marijuana had been smoked," said Loucks. "The cigarettes were placed around the room the way a host places regular cigarettes out for his guests."

He said the guests had no marijuana in their clothes. "But, of course," said Loucks "none of the guests had their clothes on when they were arrested."

Woolums Voted Top AA Coach

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—John Woolums of Dayton Roosevelt today was named Ohio's Class AA high school basketball coach of the year in the Associated Press poll of sports writers, officials and coaches.

The tutor of the top-ranked, unbeaten Teddies has been coaching for 18 of his 38 years, compiling a 257-89 record.

In 13 years at the Roosevelt helm his 198-72 record has brought him two district and six city championships—the last four in a row. He has coached 23 straight and has been top ranked all year in the Associated Press poll.

In the state-wide voting, with hundreds participating, Woolums was a standout winner. Ken Kate of unbeaten Canton Timken was second, and Bill Ross of Marietta third.

Next in line were John Cabas of Salem, Bill Kaylor of Xenia Central, Bill Satterlee of Akron South, Sam Marchio of Urbana, George Valentine of Ashland, Doyce Filiere of Pemberville Eastwood, Joe Howell of Cleveland East Tech, Ed DiGregorio of Youngstown East, Bill Arthur of Archbold, and Russell Moore of Pomeroy.

Woolums, who sends his terrific Teddies against Middletown's seven-time state champions Friday in the Cincinnati regional, coached the New Vienna team while a senior at Wilmington College.

He spent two years at Martinsville and two at Lemon-Monroe before going to Dayton. After graduating from Wilmington in 1943, Woolums received his masters degree in education and school administration from Miami in 1952. In between he sandwiched a World War II stint with the Marine Corps. He's a graduate of Belfast, Ohio, High School.

The ratings were based on regular season games, as are the

All-Ohio player selections to be announced next week. The All-Ohio teams, at the request of the Ohio High School Basketball Coaches Assn., are made public the week of the state championship tournament.

Others mentioned prominently for the coach of the year award in Class AA were Bobby Carroll of Bridgeport, Dale Reichenbach of Elyria, the 1959 choice; Eugene Degansky of Lakewood, Andy Kandik of Toledo Scott, Jim Clark of Cincinnati Central, Bucky Walters of Cuyahoga Falls, and George Heller of Portsmouth.

Views on Television-Radio

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—There's nothing like an old-fashioned cold in the head—running eyes, drippy nose and accompanying bad disposition—to reveal what has been happening to radio while we've had our attention fixed on television.

Television proved no panacea for this recently rheumy-eyed sufferer, but neither, it must be confessed, was good old daytime radio. It takes more than a couple of days for a stranger to get caught up in the adventures of “Helen Trent.” Top news just doesn't break fast enough to add much variety to those half-hour news roundup programs. Music, even when it isn't rock and roll, begins to cloy when it isn't an accompaniment to something else the listener is doing.

The more entertaining part of the day for a restless invalid unable even to read, started with Sam Levenson on CBS shortly after 9 a.m. I found that I stuck with that network straight through to 2 p.m. when it concluded its block of daytime serials.

Actually, however, there is so little except music on radio these days it's hardly any fun at all any more to stay home with a cold in the head.

CBS plans to repeat, for nighttime audiences, the hour-long “Salute to the American Theater” originally shown early on a December Sunday afternoon. The repeat will be Friday, April 8, 9-10 p.m., and is well worth attention by those who missed it first time out.

You can be sure we will get the full treatment on the Windsor-Jones nuptials. NBC already has plans for two special programs. One will cover the background of the romance between Princess Margaret and photographer Antony Armstrong-Jones. The second will be coverage of the May 6 wedding itself.

CBS' Circle Theatre will reconstruct the adventures of Miami Herald reporter James Buchanan, arrested recently in Cuba in its March 30 show.

Recommended tonight: “Academy Songs,” NBC, 8:30-9:30—Jane Wymann pre-1940 over a song fest built around Oscar-winning tunes of the past, with Charles Laughton, Kay Starr, Nat King Cole and others; Arthur Murray Party for Bob Hope, NBC, 9:30-10—first of a two-part series “roasting” the comedian.

Crocker Grabs Tourney Laurels

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP)—Fay Crocker may be 45 and have thin blood, but the South American seniorita has plenty of staying power on the golf course.

She proved that in the 21st Women's Titleholders when she jumped out front the first day, led all the way and won by seven shots over Kathy Cornelius of Lakeland, Fla. Miss Crocker took top money of $1,200 Monday with a 303. Mrs. Cornelius had 310, good for a $900 check.

Par for the 6,300-yard Augusta Country Club course is 36-36—72. Never easy, the hilly layout was tougher than usual this year, after late winter snow and ice storms left the course in less than perfect shape.

How Weather Looks Today

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Official Weather Bureau summary of Ohio's weather outlook:

Most of Ohio was cloudy Monday and afternoon temperatures continued well below normal.

Cleveland reported a high of 28, Columbus 32, Marietta 35.

Skies were clear this morning except along the Ohio River, and temperatures ranged from only 6 above at Youngstown to 15 at Columbus, and 24 at Chesapeake and Cincinnati.

A low pressure over Texas will move slowly eastward Wednesday but the resulting heavy snows will again be held south of the Ohio River by high pressure over the Great Lakes. Some light snow or flurries may occur over the southern counties.

Continued cold weather is expected.

McMillan's Bat Booms For Redlegs

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Roy McMillan, the skinny Cincinnati shortstop, has a new talent for hitting.

The Reds tried him as leadoff man Monday in an exhibition against Baltimore's American Leaguers. He lashed out a triple, double and single and scored three runs.

"It's a matter of getting more snap into my wrists," he said. "Wally Moses suggested it and I want to tell you it's the first time I received a workable batting tip."

The Orioles, getting 15 of their hurlers Ted Wieden, Jim Brosnan and Mike Cuellar and benefitting from five Red throw errors, won 9-4.

But McMillan's batting spree perked up his teammates. There has been some question as to whether he's physically fit again. A second base collision with Billy Bruton of Milwaukee last August cracked McMillan's clavicle, ending his playing for the season.

It cast a shadow on the length of his playing days. Mac wasn't the only one worried when it failed to heal properly and an operation was performed.

"The days I had to wait to test it thoroughly were killing," he said. "The club wouldn't even let me swing a bat or exercise the shoulder until Jan. 15."

"Then I swung a bat, felt no pain, hitch or anything unusual. Then I played three rounds of golf. It felt fine."

Spring training is the big test. Mac said "I didn't have any real fears about it when I shagged grounders, threw the ball and even took my turn in the batting cage."

"But it certainly was more encouraging to find that I can do everything I did in the past."

Scioto Patrol Aide Lauded For Courage

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—A Scioto County member of the Ohio Highway Patrol auxiliary has been cited for his alertness and courage in helping to subdue a man who was attacking a Portsmouth policeman.

Harold Green, 39, of Wheelersburg, a 10-year veteran of the auxiliary, was presented the group's highest award Sunday for going to the aid of policeman Howard Thompson the night of Sept. 5.

Green received the award at the auxiliary's 15th state conference here.

Officer Thompson had stopped a weaving car on U.S. 52 between New Boston and Sciotoville. While getting the woman driver's license he was struck from behind by her male companion.

The man then tried to take Thompson's revolver, but the officer shot him in the shoulder. The wounded man struck Thompson again, knocked him to the ground, then proceeded to kick him in the head and ribs.

At this point, Green pulled up in his car and helped subdue the assailant, saving Thompson from further injury.

The auxiliary was founded in 1942. It is composed of 5,000 selected members of the American Legion who put in 220,000 duty hours last year.

Venezuelan Stops Feather Champion

CARACAS, Venezuela. (AP)—A little known Venezuelan fighter broke world featherweight champion Davey Moore's jaw and forced the Springfield, Ohio, scrapper to leave the ring in the seventh round of a scheduled 10-round non-title bout Monday night.

Young Carlos Hernandez rocked Moore with a hard right in the third round and sent him down for a six count. Moore clinched and waited for the bell.

It appeared it was the third round blow that fractured Moore's jaw. After the fight, his jaw was placed in a cast.

Moore weighed 127, Hernandez, 130.

SOMETHING TO TALK ABOUT AT GENEVA — Despite 15 years of troop cuts (illustrated) that have slashed millions from their armed forces since World War II, Russia and the West are arming at a terrific speed as the West and East seek a disarmament plan in Geneva. The arms race today is in nuclear rockets. Facing each other across the Geneva conference table are NATO United States, Britain, France, Canada and Italy, and Russia and her satellites, Poland, Czechoslovakia, Romania and Bulgaria. Russia wants total disarmament within four years. The West reportedly wants a gradual stepdown ending with complete disarmament under strict controls.

Can Woman Keep a Secret? 136,000 To Take Census

By DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Women's Editor
Can a woman keep a secret? The United States government will soon find out, as some 136,000 women start out April 1 in every city, town and crossroads to compile highly personal information about their neighbors, for the 1960 census.

This year Uncle Sam is depending largely on housewives to count the noses of Americans for him, since not many men are available for the job. The Bureau of the Census in Washington estimates that 85 per cent of the 136,000 takers of the 1960 census will be women, compared with 65 per cent in 1950. The reason: higher employment and higher wages. A two-week job at an average of $13 a day doesn't have as many takers as it did 10 years ago.

Census takers will work largely in their own neighborhoods, for purposes of convenience and efficiency.

Questionnaires will be mailed to all residents of the United States late in March, and a few days later census takers will call to pick up the answers, and check them.

This is the rub. The new census questions go into details which Mrs. Jones may not want her neighbors to know — questions about age, income, number of marriages and so on. One in four homes will receive detailed questionnaires containing 45 questions designed to give the government a living portrait of every American — how many days off you or your husband had last year, how you or he travels to work, how many bedrooms in your home, and so on. These detailed questionnaires are mailed direct to the regional census office, in a postage-paid envelope enclosed.

But the regular census form, containing 11 questions, is picked up by the census taker, who checks the answers. Since the census taker probably is a neighbor, some people may feel a few qualms about revealing all their vital and financial statistics.

The Census Bureau assures the public that all records are confidential, and that the enumerators are sworn to secrecy, with stiff penalties for divulging the contents of any questionnaire. Not even the President or the FBI can look at these census records, they say.

THE ADDITIONAL equipment, he said, will let two calls to be made simultaneously to the service, instead of one.

Christianson said that during the weekend about one of every six to 10 calls was connected to the sermonette — the others received busy signals — owing to the large volume of calls.

Pastor Zehner said, "The response of the people of Circleville has so passed our expectations that we are adding another unit to take care of the hundreds of calls. We feel that to get the busy signal time after time would tend to discourage people from trying to call back and they would thus lose interest in the program itself."

Dialing of the number GR 4-2123 connects the caller to the one-minute sermonette. Pastor Zehner records a new talk every day.

It had been predicted that an estimated 500 calls would be made to the sermonette every 24-hour period. That was based on the public's response to other similar installations in Ohio communities.

Phone Sermon Plan Expands; Use Is Heavy

Phone calls to the Circleville Lutheran Church's new "Dial-A-Devotion" service here exceeded expectations last weekend. As a result the church has decided to double the service's capacity.

The Rev. Carl G. Zehner, pastor, said today he has ordered a second telephone line and another electronic secretary to air his one-minute sermonettes.

Immediately after the installation last Friday, the new system was swamped with calls. From 4:45 p. m. Friday to 9:30 a. m. Sunday, some 1,997 calls were connected.

And, the pastor said, from 8 a. m. Monday to 8:30 a. m. Tuesday another 956 calls were recorded.

Donald Christianson, General Telephone Co.'s local representative, said the second electronic secretary would be installed today.

Negro Sitdown Shows Waning

Mass Convictions
Chill Demonstrators

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Negro sitdown demonstrations appeared to be diminishing in the South today in the face of mass convictions and firm police action but new racial violence was reported in two cities.

Negro students at Florida A.M. University called off their sit-downs protesting segregated eating facilities at Tallahassee, Montgomery, Ala., was quiet. There was one small demonstration in South Carolina.

Courts in Virginia, North Carolina and South Carolina handed down a series of convictions Monday in connection with sitdown troubles. Both Negroes and white persons were involved.

At Charleston, S. C., Grady McMakin, 24, a white service station attendant, told police six Negro youths carved crude "KKK" initials in his back, beat him up and robbed him of $40.

In New Orleans, Michael Tortorich, 17, told police a Negro teenager stabbed him in the back Sunday night as he waited for a bus. Tortorich's condition was described as fair.

The decision to halt demonstrations at Tallahassee was announced by Ira C. Robinson, president of the Student Government Assn. at Florida A.M. University. He said agreement was reached after Saturday's near riot in downtown Tallahassee and the turning back of a Negro march by tear gas.

At Petersburg, Va., hundreds of Negroes sang hymns outside the courthouse while 11 members of their race were convicted of trespassing at the city's public library March 7. All were released on bond.

Two Negro college students were convicted of trespassing in Raleigh, N.C. They were among 43 students arrested during February demonstrations.

Perry Mason's TV Enemy Arrested at Nude Gathering

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Singer Lola DeWitt says it was just a "compatible group having a sociable gathering" the night police raided a Hollywood party and arrested her, TV actor William Talman, and six others.

Officers said the merry-makers had no clothes on.

Miss DeWitt, 31, pleaded innocent Monday to a morals charge. Talman—the district attorney on the Perry Mason TV series—will enter his plea Thursday, along with the other defendants.

All are charged with lewd vagrancy. In addition, the party's host, Richard Riebold, 31, faces a narcotics charge. Detectives said all were frolicking naked when the raid occurred. They said marijuana cigarettes were found in Riebold's apartment.

Newsman asked Miss DeWitt if, as charged, everyone was stripped. Replied Miss DeWitt:

"We were comfortable." She added: "We were a compatible group, very friendly, having a sociable gathering. In our business people have to relax, you know."

Talman, 45, has played the hard-luck district attorney in the Mason series for three years.

Gail Patrick Jackson, executive producer of the series, said she couldn't say what will happen to Talman's job until after she talks to him—and his case is decided in court.

"After all," she said, "in our society a person is presumed innocent until proven guilty."

John W. Loucks, deputy district attorney, said all eight originally were booked on suspicion of possession of marijuana. But he said an attempt was made to prosecute them on that charge because evidence indicated the marijuana was all property of the host.

"There was nothing to indicate that any marijuana had been smoked," said Loucks. "The cigarettes were placed around the room the way a host places regular cigarettes out for his guests."

He said the guests had no marijuana in their clothes. "But, of course," said Loucks, "none of the guests had their clothes on when they were arrested."
